

Kindergarten registration in Tewksbury

Registration for all children who will enter Tewksbury kindergarten classes in September, 1984, will take place at the North Street, Heath Brook and Shawsheen Schools, Monday through Friday, April 23 through 27 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 to 2 p.m.

The Heath Brook School will also be open for registration on Monday evening, April 23 from 7 to 9. The North Street School will be open for registration Tuesday evening, April 24 from 7 to 9. The Shawsheen School will be open Wednesday, April 25 from 7 to 9 p.m.

In order to be eligible for kindergarten a child must be five years of age on or before January 1, 1985. A birth certificate or proof of age must be submitted before a child enters school in September.

No child will be admitted to school without a certificate of immunization. It is strongly recommended that parents at the time of registration take records indicating the dates of immunization. Certain immunizations are required and must be completed by the first day of school.

The required immunizations for students entering Kindergarten are:

Diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis: a total of four shots of DTP, if the child is five years old or younger. If the child has reached his sixth birthday before completing the series, it would be completed with Td No. 2, rather than DPT No. 1. No pertussis vaccine should be given after the sixth birthday. Children six years of age and over, who have not received the DPT, should receive three injections of Td.

Oral polio vaccine: Three basic drinks (one booster, one year after third drink. On entering kindergarten all children who have completed a series of oral polio vaccine should be given a single booster dose, all others should complete primary series.

Measles: One shot after 12 months (measles, mumps and rubella are usually combined into a single shot administered as one shot).

Mumps: One shot.
Rubella: One shot.

Note: Small pox is no longer required or recommended.

Although a child may be refused admission to school if he or she does not meet the immunization requirements, it is not intended that any child whose parents comply with the intent of Chapter 161, (mandated Immunization Requirements) should be excluded from school even for a single day. A note from a private physician or town clinic indicating that required immunizations have been started is evidence of such compliance.

In order to determine the needs of your child, it may be necessary to contact your doctor if the immunizations were administered by a private physician, or the Tewksbury Board of Health. Those unable to receive immunizations or boosters from their private doctors will be able to participate in immunization clinics held once every other month by the Tewksbury Board of Health free of charge. Additional information pertaining to immunization requirements and immunizations may be obtained from the board of health, school principals and/or school nurse.

CLOCK Tock

THE CLOCKFOLK OF NEW ENGLAND

The mechanisms of all cuckoo clocks have bellows, pipes, and moving figures. Nearly all have weights hanging on chains to drive the mechanism. One is for the pendulum and hands, while the other is for the striking, cuckooing, and the motion of the bird. A third weight would accommodate a musical attachment and automated dancers. Looking into the back of a cuckoo clock, one sees a maze of wires, rods, levers, and gears each with a specific angle to provide its function.

On the hour a hammer strikes a gong and twin rods each lift a very thin leather-clad bellows allowing them to fall when fully raised, one at a time. Invented about 1740, the principal is based on the church organ pipe. Each bellows gives a puff of air to a small wooden pipe producing the "cuc" and then the "koo." Sound is determined by the depth of the pipe, with the "cuc" pipe being shorter than the "koo" pipe. So then, each stroke of the hour consists of a strike on a gong and a "cuckoo."

The bird is a little mechanical toy that tilts forward when its tail is raised by a wire projecting from the top of one of the bellows. Small internal wires open the beak to call. The bird is mounted on a swinging rod which springs back into the clock when finished. A small connected wire causes the trap door to follow and shut.

At first introduction, and perhaps well after, the cuckoo clock is indeed an intriguing machine.

Next - The use of brass for clocks.

Educational Update

by Dr. Carol Sager
Superintendent of Schools

Again I must thank you for your supportive comments and assure you that I will continue to address your concerns which this week center on the high school accreditation.

The inadequacy of the present high school library is one of the major reasons why Wilmington High School's accreditation is being extended from special report to special report instead of being granted outright for 5 to 10 years as it is usually.

The present library is small, hardly larger than two ordinary classrooms, which is one-third the size required by state regulations. Its seating capacity is far below minimum standards, accommodating only 50 students with difficulty.

A library media center should be the principal educational resource of the high school. It should be large enough, according to be published standards, to accommodate 10 to 15 percent of the student body at any given time. It should be a place of study and research rather than merely a room to store books which severely limits the opportunity of the librarian to offer invaluable assistance to the students. It should be furnished with study carrels, AV equipment that can be used individually without disturbing others, and other necessary print and non print resource materials.

Some people have asked why we can't use the town library as the high school library. The use of the town library as the high school library is impractical as well as educationally unsound. The impracticality of teaching library skills to high school students in the midst of the town library is obvious. The impracticality of having students go to lockers to get coats and walk to and from the town library to do research in a 45 minute period is obvious. It is also not practical for the town library, which has its own broader responsibilities to the community at large, to try to undertake student library skills training or curriculum planning with directors and teachers. Nor is it practical for the town library to house all the audio visual hardware and software that is presently housed in locked departmental storage areas on both floors of the high school.

In addition to being impractical, using the town library for a high school media center would not provide the best education for the youth of Wilmington. The purpose of a high school media center is to support the curriculum and foster better research and reading skills among our students. The print and non print materials in the high school library are used by students and teachers to increase learning and enhance the high school programs. Many of those materials are not suitable for use by the general public. Mrs. Beverly Shea, the high school librarian, is certified as a teacher and as a librarian. She works closely with the curriculum supervisors and the reading department to insure that there are sufficient materials available to all students grades 9 to 12 for research projects and book reports in many subject areas.

If Wilmington is to offer a high school education that at least meets the minimum state standards, the library media center, since it exists to support and enhance the entire educational program, must meet the minimum state standards. The architects in their plans for the new library media center, have adhered to the minimum state requirements for high school media centers. The plans must include only those media facilities that are considered educationally essential to the modern high school.

The students of Wilmington High School deserve an education that will enable them to compete for college entrance or job opportunities which students from all other communities in the state of Massachusetts. An essential part of that education is the support and enhancement of their learning provided by a modern library media facility.

Please continue to call me at my office (658-2052) if you have any questions or concerns.

Editor's note: Last week's Town Crier carried a letter to the editor signed by Jay Donovan which was substantially changed, due to an error with the typesetting computer. The Donovan letter as printed was actually a combination of the first part of another man's letter with the conclusion of Mr. Donovan's.

Here is Jay Donovan's letter, in its correct form.

Dear Larz:

About that political advertisement which appeared in the Town Crier two weeks ago, I would like to challenge some statements made regarding the traffic situation in Wilmington.

As the town's representative to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council in the development of traffic problems, I have been involved with the town manager and selectmen in the development of a traffic improvement program. The purpose is to prioritize traffic problems in Wilmington, to suggest solutions, and to identify funding options at federal and state levels.

Last week, just prior to the appearance of that political ad there was a meeting in the town hall of representatives of the police department, selectmen, highway department, planning board, Chamber of Commerce and others. In essence there is an on going effort to resolve the traffic problems in Wilmington by the town and the state delegation, contrary to the message of that political ad.

Traffic problems in Wilmington can be attributed to development within the town, as well as the changing habits of families, and the increased number of cars roads. The major traffic priority for the past 20 years has been the redesign of Route 129 from the Route 93 exit to town square. The selectmen are on record of supporting an early start option. Rep. James Miceli has been working to replace the Route 62 bridge.

It appears that the other parts of the problem will not be solved until the Route 129 segment, from Route 93 to Ayco is finished. Unfortunately the first section of this is not likely to move ahead until the discussions with the owner of the Forrest Mobil station, at West Street and Route 129 have been concluded. Even the Federal government is waiting for these issues to be resolved.

Despite the best efforts of our State delegate, over the years, it appears that the Route 129 project in Wilmington will remain with us for several years. It also appears that the same person complaining about traffic problems is partly responsible for holding up the progress on Route 129.

In the heat of political battles candidates often make uninformed statements. I would hope that everyone involved in the Route 129 project and the overall traffic situation in Wilmington would work together as a part of the solution, not a part of the problem.

These problems cannot be solved until we have the good faith of the Board of Selectmen, the State delegation, the Chamber of Commerce and the abutters on Routes 129 and 38. Once this coalition is formed we can work together to move the State and Federal agencies to complete these projects as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

Jay J. Donovan,
MAPC Representative

Dear Larz:

I am writing a letter in support of the renovation of the high school.

I am completing my four year of residence in Wilmington. I have met many people, both from other areas and indigenous to Wilmington. I really enjoy living here.

Unfortunately I am concerned about the physical state of the High School. Within its walls it encompasses gifted teachers and children who have a multitude of talents. In fact it encompasses the future, both ours and our children. However, the walls seem to be rigid, they have not been given the flexibility that people have, they can not change without help. We can change with the times.

I have two children, by September they will both be in the elementary school system. I am very discouraged to think that they and many others will attend a school which is physically inferior to the one I went to. Obviously I want better for my children.

I came through a major renovation in a school. The thrill of being the first in new science laboratories, a new cafeteria and other facilities is something to experience — it gives one a sense of pride — "This is my school!" Unfortunately Wilmington High School has less than what my school had originally.

Everyone knows they function better when the sun shines. Everyone knows that it is more enjoyable to work in pleasant surroundings. Surely it is our duty to provide modern, up to date, pleasant surroundings for our children, — so they can turn around and say "I went to Wilmington High School!" with pride.

The renovation that is being proposed is the bare minimum that our children deserve. I would just like to encourage everyone who can to vote positively in favor of the High School renovation. For those who are still in doubt I would encourage them to take advantage of the tours of the High School on April 14, a week before the election. Go and see what conditions exist for the teachers and students.

Our children will be thankful we cared.

Thank you,

Sincerely,
E. Elery Shaw

Letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

In all the discussion about the needed renovation of the high school, one fact has not been mentioned, which has nothing to do with the academic needs of our children. That issue has been addressed very well in the proposal from the Permanent Building Committee.

It is the simple fact that much of the reputation of a town and, therefore, the value of its properties is tied in with the reputation of its school system and especially its high school. If Wilmington High School is perceived to be below par with the high schools in surrounding towns, our property values are going to suffer. People will think twice about wanting to buy homes here. Consider this quote, which says it so well:

"With its roots deeply embedded in the past, the school building is a symbol of the ideas of a free, self governing people. With a look toward the future, it reflects the ambitions, the hopes, the aspirations, and the dreams of a people that is striving to move forward and upward to a way of life that is better, fuller, richer, and more rewarding than that which it now knows. It is its best form and appearance — it is an expression of the aesthetic values of the people and their sense of what is pleasing and beautiful."

Shirley Cooper, Deputy Executive Secretary, American Assn. of School Administrators.

I hope that we, the voters of Wilmington, will embody these principles and not settle for second best. Let's move forward, get out, and vote yes for the high school renovation on April 21.

Sincerely,

Andrew J. Armata

Dear Larz:

The League of Women Voters of Wilmington believes that the voters must exempt the funding for the proposed renovations to the high school from the limitations of Proposition 2½. The physical plant of the high school does not meet minimum standards set by the state, according to the New England Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges. Because of this deficiency, students graduating from Wilmington High School are at a disadvantage when competing for college and jobs against students who have attended state certified high schools. In addition, an inadequate educational system discourages home buyers from purchasing in our community; consequently, property values are adversely affected.

No alternative for funding these renovations has been proposed. Unless we vote to exempt this bond issue from the limits of Proposition 2½, money for the completion of the project will come out of existing town budgets, effectively cutting funds to already strapped departments such as the police, fire, schools, recreation and the Council on Aging.

With a favorable vote from the town meeting and once the town's intent to fund the renovations is filed with the School Building Assistance Bureau, the state will reimburse us for at least 50 percent of the cost.

Some people have suggested making the renovations a few at a time. Unfortunately, this method not only raises the final cost, but increases the length of time that education and other activities would be disrupted at the high school.

Other people feel that exempting the cost of renovation from Proposition 2½ would be a costly precedent and make future overrides more likely. We suggest that the exemption feature included in Proposition 2½ addresses just such necessities as the required renovations to the high school. Moreover, this instance is a one time effort. We voters will still maintain control over any other proposed exemptions.

Aside from the strictly financial considerations involved in this decision, we must also examine the attitudes we are advocating. Today's young people will be responsible for taking care of us in the future. Are we teaching them to be penny-wise and pound-foolish about social needs and responsibilities if we refuse the necessary sum to promote a quality education that will benefit the entire community?

To ensure the funds for the high school renovations, we must vote twice — once at the polls on April 21 to exempt the cost of the renovations from Proposition 2½, and again at town meeting on April 28 to release the money for building. As eighteenth century essayist Samuel Johnson said, "The future is purchased by the present."

Sincerely,

Kathryn S. Cooper
President, League of Women Voters of Wilmington

Dear Larz:

I am a concerned senior at Wilmington High School, and although the proposed renovations will not affect me, I am a strong supporter of the renovations. Many profess to know the needs of the high school, however, I feel that there is no better source of reference concerning the need of renovations then by consulting someone who has just spent four years attending there.

There are numerous areas of the high school that are extremely inadequate in comparison with other high schools in the area. The science labs, shop areas, gymnasium, art and music departments, and the library are all cramped and don't even meet state requirements. The proposed renovations will greatly improve the potential for an excellent education.

My main purpose for writing this letter is to show that the majority of students at Wilmington High School are concerned about improving the archaic facilities at the high school. Although I feel I received an acceptable education, I would hope that the future students of Wilmington High School will not have to "put up" with the poor facilities presently in various areas of the high school. An excellent high school is something that the whole town can be proud of.

Sincerely,

James R. Wallace

School Committee Notes

Slated as an agenda item on the next meeting of the Wilmington School Committee, to be held on April 11, is a new policy that will deal with the abuse of drugs and alcohol in the Wilmington Public Schools. In February a committee was formed to explore the nature and extent of Wilmington's drug and alcohol problem. David Stutman, an employee of the federal government, who specializes in the use and abuse of drugs, spent time with students and administrators in the system to determine the extent of Wilmington's problem. Stutman informed the school committee in February that drugs and alcohol were being used in Wilmington and at a level that needed to be addressed. The first step to eliminate it, according to Stutman, was to recognize that a problem existed.

Under the leadership of School Committee Chairman Robert Peterson, a committee was formed to explore methods to eliminate the problem. Serving on the committee were members of the community as well as Wilmington Police Chief Bobby Stewart, school committeeman Tony Accardi, Acting Wilmington High School Principal Richard DeRosa, Principal Joe Connelly, teacher Matt Joyce and the superintendent of schools.

After extensive study and discussion by the committee, it was decided that what was needed in Wilmington was a drug - alcohol policy that would unequivocally indicate to students that the school committee would absolutely not tolerate the use of drugs or alcohol on school property or at school-sponsored events.

At a meeting of the drug - alcohol subcommittee held in March, various members submitted to Chairman Peterson particular concerns and suggestions that should be included in a policy which would serve the education of students in Wilmington in the best possible manner. Cleo Fredette, director of special education, expressed his concern that the special needs program should not become a dumping ground for students who abuse drugs. WTA President Matt Joyce presented the concerns of teachers in regard to liability as well as implementation of the policy. Lorna Stockbridge, a parent, commended the safety factors a new policy would add to the school environment.

On Sunday March 25, after a brief meeting with the superintendent, Chairman Robert Peterson and school committeeman Tony Accardi retired to the conference at the Roman House and began the difficult task of blending these various thoughts and concerns into one comprehensive policy that all agreed would create a drug - alcohol free environment in the Wilmington Public Schools.

Considering the suggestions of the committee, some of the salient points Accardi and Peterson included in the new policy were as follows:

1. Drugs and alcohol use will categorically not be tolerated on school property or at school sponsored events.
2. All non-prescription drugs and prescription drugs shall be immediately, upon entering school property, be deposited with the school nurse or principal.
3. All offending students will be given due process rights.
4. Any student found to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol, or to have distributed these, will be suspended from school for eight days.
5. A student violating this policy forfeits his privilege to participate in any and all extracurricular school activities for the remainder of the school year.
6. Any student who is found to violate this policy for a second time will be suspended for 10 school days and his parents will be given the opportunity to be heard by the Wilmington School Committee for the purpose of determining whether the student should be expelled from the Wilmington Public Schools. (This student, by vote of the school committee, may be allowed to return to school at the commencement of the next school year.)
7. During a period of suspension or expulsion the student is prohibited from coming onto school property, except for the purpose of keeping appointments for hearings, counseling or treatment.

It is important to note that at this time, this policy has not been presented to, or officially approved by the Wilmington School Committee. Discussions dealing with this policy will take place at the next meeting of the committee. At this time, it is expected that the school committee will vote to either approve the implementation of this policy or reject it, and ask for another amended version.

Wilmington refuses Tewksbury plea for water

Wilmington officials Monday night remained steadfast in the decision to shut off emergency water supplies to Tewksbury on May 1.

Chairman Paul Sullivan of the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen visited the Wilmington selectmen's meeting, asking Wilmington's indulgence to continue the water service through the summer.

The selectmen told Sullivan that the matter was up to the Water and Sewer Commissioners. As Sullivan was leaving, George Allan, chairman of that body, arrived. The two discussed the matter in the hallway of the Wilmington library for several minutes, with Allan not yielding. Sullivan left, and Allan took a seat in the meeting room.

Nearly two hours later, Allan got up to leave the meeting, and the selectmen asked to talk with him.

Allan said that the position of the commissioners remains unchanged. In August, 1982, Tewksbury came before them, asking for emergency supplies. "That emergency, in our opinion, no longer exists," Allan said. He cited continued building, especially of condominiums, in Tewksbury.

Selectman Robt Doucette said that he had heard repeatedly that Wilmington has excess water. "Can't we make some money selling it," he asked.

"Our duty is to provide water for Wilmington," said Allan. "They have several wells shut down due to coliform, and they don't want to chlorinate. If we sell to them, we'll have to pump Salem Street more often, and will thereby reduce the quality of water for our residents."

"All the towns helping them should shut them off," said Allan. "All they're doing is prolonging the agony." He said that if Tewksbury were shut off, they would then have to face up to the water supply problems, and take proper action.

Allan said that the shut-off was not due to Tewksbury owing so much money, but was a matter of supply.

Not brought out in the discussion was the reason for the May 1 date. During May, the commissioners will have to shut down the Butter's Row treatment plant, to change the carbon filters. This, combined with a water main flushing program, will leave Wilmington with no extra water to sell to other towns.

Wilmington selectmen Robert Doucette and Jim Stewart listen to Paul Sullivan, right, as he asks for a continuation of emergency water supplies for Tewksbury.

Tewksbury appropriates partial water payments

by Jim Brown
Tewksbury Editor
Faced with water bills from four neighboring communities amounting to more than what they could afford to pay, Tewksbury town meeting voters adopted Tuesday a measure to provide at least partial "good faith" payments on those bills. Voters, without debate and on a voice vote, agreed to transfer a total of $43,728 from various sources to help reduce over $135,000 in overdue bills to neighboring communities.

Voters adopted a fincom recommendation to transfer $30,000 from the town's excess and deficiency account (free cash), $6728 from the Shawshen Regional Vocational School account and $7000 from the town's overlay surplus account to the board of public works who will decide how to split that money up between four communities seeking payment of overdue water bills.

According to Finance Committee Chairman Bob Masters, the town already owes $135,867 to the Towns of Andover, Billerica, Wilmington and the City of Lowell for water those communities provided to help Tewksbury out of a dire water shortage in fiscal 1984. Those bills, however, only represent the charge for water used before January or February of 1984. Charges for the remainder of the fiscal year, which ends June 30, could push the total owed to over $300,000, according to a memo written to the fincom by Public Works Supt. Phil Pattison.

The pool of money the fincom had hoped to apply to the overdue debts was reduced when voters earlier in the meeting narrowly approved a request to transfer $26,000 to beef up a quickly diminishing fire department overtime account. Without extra overtime funds, Fire Chief William Chandler has said, he would not be able to provide a fill-in when firefighters are out sick, injured or on vacation and would then have no other choice but to periodically close a fire station.

Wilmington, citing the non-payment of bills and questioning the status of Tewksbury's "water emergency", voted last month to stop supplying water to Tewksbury as of May 1.

With only about $10,000 left in a reserve account to cover any type of emergency that occurs between now and the end of the fiscal year, fincom members have said that funding for the remainder of the overdue bills would have to come out of fiscal 1985 funds.

Septic system must be pumped, says Board of Health

A Kennedy Road home is the subject of concern to members of the Tewksbury Board of Health. The problem is not a new one. There is an overflowing septic system and no relief seems to be in sight.

The owner of the home is an Andover resident who leases the property out. He has written to say that he hired a Chelmsford Company to do repair work and that the repairs will be done in June 1984.

Health Officer Bill McMenimen told the health board he could be tolerant because of all the recent rain and snow, if only the owner would have the system pumped out. The neighbors, he said, are unhappy.

The health board response was to declare that the home could be declared uninhabitable. Then it could no longer be rented. Jack Lu, newly elected chairman, said that three days was ample, to get the system pumped out. Other members agreed.

McMenimen is to write a letter to the owner telling him to get the system pumped out, daily if necessary, until the repairs are made, or court action will be instituted by the board.

Another problem was for a home on John E. Smith Drive. There, according to McMenimen, is "an old problem." The owner has had the system pumped out, but not enough, he declared. The situation, he said, is "overdue."

The owner is being invited to visit the board of health to discuss the problem. Abutters will be invited too.

A third problem discussed at the April 9 meeting was with a young family which seeks to build a home on Tareila Circle. Frank and Norma Matley of Marshall Street have obtained a bank loan and are ready to start work, but there is a well in the adjoining lot which is 10 feet from the property line.

The neighbor's home is serviced by town water. The well, which is shallow, is used to supply water for the lawn.

The state sanitary code (Title V) prohibits an installation of any septic system within 100 feet of any well. A variance will have to be issued.

McMenimen told the board that, technically speaking, the abutters have to be notified. The State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) is involved because of Title V and must be notified. It is a case of being certain that no errors are made, because a disgruntled person can go to court and tie up proceedings for several weeks.

"You have to cross your T's and dot your I's," McMenimen said.

The members of the board were concerned with the shortage, and the interest costs. But they felt that McMenimen had valid reasons for being certain that everything was right.

The couple was instructed to send certified mail letters to the abutters to conform to the law. The board will then hold a Thursday, April 12 special meeting to act on the question and possibly grant a variance.

Tewksbury Democratic meeting Friday

The Tewksbury Democratic Town Committee will hold its organizational meeting Friday, April 13 at 8 p.m. at the Tewksbury Town Hall. Charles T. Coppola has called the meeting to elect new officers for the committee and to elect representatives to the April 15 Senate District Caucus.

The meeting is open to all registered Democrats, persons ineligible (children or non-citizens), and media representatives. Candidates for representation must be present and give his/her written consent to be nominated and that nomination must be seconded by two persons present.

How can you house 125 elderly people in one apartment?

You can't.

But the Wilmington Housing Authority has 125 elderly people on the list, waiting for the next vacancy at Deming Way.

It will be a long wait for most of them.

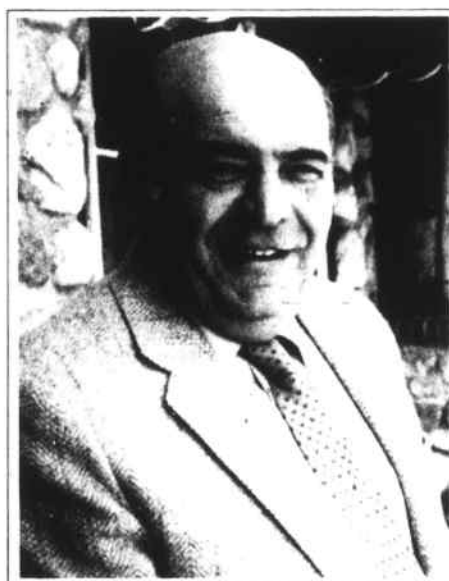

Wilmington has only forty units of housing for the elderly, and hasn't built a new unit for almost thirty years.

Selectman Rocco DePasquale wants to renew our town's commitment to housing for our senior citizens.

Rocco DePasquale's plan for affordable housing for the elderly:

1. Extend the town sewer line to the Deming Way development to solve the septic problem there.
2. Take advantage of available federal funds to build additional units at Deming Way. Since services and zoning are already in place, this is the most affordable location.
3. Hire full-time personnel to provide the services the residents deserve. The increased size of the development will make full-time staff cost-efficient.

In the thirty years since we built Deming Way, the population of Wilmington has increased 70%, without any increase in elderly housing. For too long, elderly people in our town have been victims of political games that have held up every effort to provide additional housing and services. Rocco DePasquale is one selectman who wants to put an end to the games and give our elderly the respect they deserve.

A selectman since 1978, Rocco DePasquale has been named Chairman by his fellow Board members in each of his terms. Major accomplishments during Rocco's terms include:

- ☐ Completion of prize-winning water treatment facility.
- ☐ Extension of public sewers to areas with high water tables.
- ☐ Creation of a system to monitor chemical spills.
- ☐ Money-saving consolidation of town departments.
- ☐ Installation of new water mains for North Wilmington.

Rocco and his wife, Rita Lydon DePasquale, live on Adams Street. They have five children: Mark, Rocco Jr., Matthew, Mary-Jo and Regina.

Re-elect Rocco DePasquale Selectman. Vote April 21.

Some of the people of the Harnden Tradition

"You can't tell the players without a scorecard!" When baseball fans go to the Fenway to watch the Sox lose another there are plenty of hawkers, who sell peanuts, popcorn and hot dawgs. They also sell programs, and the sale of programs is predicated on that phrase, about score cards. It's an old custom.

The same thing is probably true, when one tries to talk about the Harnden family of Wilmington. In the first century, from 1666 to the Revolution, there were three men named John and three men named Benjamin. Two of the Johns were church deacons, and all three Benjamins were lieutenants of the militia.

In the century starting with the Revolution there were three men named Joseph, three named Joshua and three named Henry.

You can't tell the players without a scorecard. It is for this reason that the writer will attempt to produce one, by assigning what seem to be reasonable nicknames. The individuals did not bear those nicknames while they lived, but had they heard them, they probably would agree that those names fitted them.

First there was William and Mary Harnden, married in Reading Oct. 24, 1666. Their home, in the northerly part of Reading was on the site that is now 67 High Street in North Wilmington.

They had four children who figure in this tale. Others died young, or left to go elsewhere with no visible trail. John and Benjamin lived near or in the original home, in what is now Wilmington. Elizabeth and Hephzibah married men from Andover, and lived in that town.

John became a deacon of the Reading church. Call him Deacon John of Reading.

Benjamin became a lieutenant in the Reading militia. Call him Lieutenant Benjamin of Reading.

Elizabeth married a man named Abbott in Andover. Her son John was the first person to teach school in Wilmington after it became a town.

Hephzibah married Abiel Chandler of Andover. Like her sister, she lived in Andover to the end of her life.

Deacon John of Reading married Susanne, in 1690. Susanne and several children were killed in the Harnden massacre. Three children survived, Abigail (wounded and left to die), Susann, and John.

There were two more children, from the second marriage, with Sarah Sherman in 1707. Rachel married Joshua Thompson of Goshen (Woburn) in 1724. Sarah married Jonathan Temple.

Deacon John of Reading built a second home near his father's home and on the Road to Andover. This was the home which was burned by the state to make room for what is now Interstate 93.

In that home his son John lived. He who became a deacon in the church in Wilmington when it was established. Call him Deacon John of Wilmington.

Lieutenant Benjamin of Reading and his wife Mary who lived in his father's home, were the parents of three children who figure locally, and of two others. The two others were twins, Richard and Samuel, born in 1699. Both served in Nova Scotia in 1725 under a Capt. Heath; Samuel was a sargent.

Richard disappeared after that. Samuel married a girl named Mary and there were five children between 1729 and 1739, at which time he moved to Killingly, Connecticut. Presumably the entire family moved too.

His sister Elizabeth had married Levi Pearson in Killingly in 1715.

Hannah married in 1713 Stephen Wright of Goshen. He became one of the first members of the Wilmington church, and Mrs. Wright (Elizabeth) joined later when the other women joined. The Wright family continued to live in Wilmington for over a century.

Benjamin married (as has been told) Joanna Gale in 1722. They lived where Butters Row and Main Street join. He became a lieutenant in the Militia (Woburn or Wilmington) and was so known. Call him Lieutenant Benjamin of Goshen.

There seems to have been a son, Benjamin. The record is not clear. A Harnden was living in the old farmhouse after the Civil War.

Lieutenant Benjamin of Reading married a second time in 1710, Elizabeth Holt. There was one son of this marriage, Barachius. He married a girl named Sarah. There were two children, one of whom, Elizabeth, probably went to Killingly, Connecticut.

Elizabeth Holt Harnden died in 1734. Barachius died in 1740, as did Lieutenant Benjamin of Reading. He seems to have been the last of the second generation to have been alive.

Abigail, who survived the massacre, was the girl who married Jonathan Nurse, and secondly, Daniel Eames, as told in the story of Eames Neck. There were six children, one of whom was John, who became a selectman in 1755 and who figured in the story of the French family at the Massacre House.

Susann, another survivor of the massacre married in 1723, Joseph Kendall of Woburn.

Deacon John of Wilmington and his wife Mary were the parents of four children who died of smallpox in 1737. One son, Joseph, had survived. He died in the Cambridge lines on Dec. 25, 1775. His wife was Esther Pierce of Wilmington (1759) and there were four children who lived to marry, Molly, Esther, Rachel and Joseph.

The second son, John, became Capt. John of Bunker Hill, a name that will probably live forever in Wilmington. John's wife was Ruth Pierce of Wilmington (1768).

Joshua, the third son, also served in the Revolution, and about 1790 became a colonel of the militia. His wife was Sarah Cornell, of the Hugenot family which lived where the Shawsheen School is today.

The fourth son, Benjamin, was a Minuteman in 1775 like his brother Capt. John, and eventually had the rank of lieutenant in the militia. He is the man this story calls Lieutenant Benjamin of Wilmington.

Lieutenant Benjamin lived, with his wife Hannah Kidder of Tewksbury, in his grandparents' home, on the hill (67 High Street). Both lived to be 91 years old, he died in 1836, and she in 1839.

Many of the persons who identify themselves as being a Harnden are descended from Lieutenant Benjamin and Hannah of Wilmington. But undoubtedly there are others who are descended from Capt. John, or Lieutenant Benjamin of Goshen, or others.

About 1810, in the Wilmington town records, all records of births in the Harnden family cease. From that date to 1843 it seems, no Harnden child was born.

There are records in other places, but not complete records. That is one of the difficulties in telling the story of the Harnden Tradition. Somehow there are no surviving Bibles, no other easy of being certain as to who was born, and to whom.

Deacon John Harnden's Home

Deacon John Harnden of Reading built this home about 1707, after the Harnden Massacre. It became in turn, the home of his son Deacon John Harnden of Wilmington and of his grandson Capt. John Harnden of Bunker Hill.

At the time of the construction of Route 93, it was believed to have been built in 1787. No one was aware of the history of the building, and it was burned by the state in 1956 to make room for the highway. At that time it was a part of the North Wilmington Nurseries, started many years before by Jacob Manning, and at that time (1956) property of Herbert C. Barrows.

The photograph was taken about a week before the fire, after the home had been stripped. It is believed to be the only full photo ever taken of the home.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz

I hope you'll give me the opportunity to respond to two articles from last week's editorial page. Both letters to the editor criticized a recent political advertisement run by one of the candidates for Board of Selectmen, John Forrest.

Michael Tyner's letter, which was incorrectly printed twice on the same page was such a vicious display and personal attack upon Mr. Forrest, that it need not be fully responded to. However, Mr. Jay Donovan's letter, which because of that typographical error was printed only in part, deserves some comment.

Jay Donovan is a representative to the MAPC. Last week, he charged that Mr. Forrest is "uninformed" and using the issue of traffic as political rhetoric. With all due respect to you Jay, nothing could be further from the truth. You would have us believe that the town's increasing traffic difficulties are a result of not only industrial development, but "changing habits of families and the increased number of cars on rural roads." Jay, that sounds like a cop-out to me. Shouldn't we be realistic in our evaluations. When major corporations are brought within our town borders, along with thousands of employees and their automobiles, that is the principle problem to be addressed. The Board of Selectmen has not done this.

In your letter, Jay, you stated that everyone should work "together as a part of the solution." Well on that point Mr. Forrest and you are in total agreement. The problems have been created by the Board of Selectmen, yet not responded to.

This was the theme of Mr. Forrest's advertisement on March 28th. The majority of citizens of this town found it not only accurate, but a breath of fresh air in a town where rhetoric is all too common.

Sincerely,

Kevin John Sowyrda

Dear Larz

We are writing to illustrate one aspect of the high school renovation. Over the past 10 years the services offered by the Reading Department have expanded tremendously. Enrollments in reading courses have tripled as teachers, guidance counselors, parents and students themselves have recognized the importance of improving reading skills.

Yet as our services and enrollment have grown, our facility for working with students has remained inadequate. Often as many as 30 students and three teachers are crammed into our small (15' x 17') room - a room that is one-third the size of a normal classroom. During a typical period, we have students working on computers, studying vocabulary, preparing for SAT's, reading silently, receiving study skills instruction, and being tested for evaluations. That our students can accomplish anything under these conditions is a testament to their desire to learn.

With the renovation, we will gain what we need the most - space. Imagine how much more we will be able to do for Wilmington students with expanded facilities. We will have areas for group instruction, silent reading, and testing and evaluation. The areas will not be elaborate, but they will be as functional as they are necessary.

The benefits that our students receive from the renovation represent only a small portion of the overall educational advantages the renovation will bring them. We urge all voters of Wilmington to vote for the renovation of the high school.

Sincerely,

Stoddard H. Melhado

Residents turn down sewer

Residents of Wiser Street, Taplin Avenue and Magazine Street have in effect told the Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners "Thank you, but no thank you." They do not want to pay for an extension of the Wilmington sewer to their streets.

Seventeen families have submitted an article in the warrant for the annual town meeting for an extension - Article 27. It is the first such petition by householders for a sewer extension in Wilmington. The hearing was held at the commissioners' office on April 5 with about a dozen persons from the affected homes present.

Commissioner Arthur Smith told the group that every sewer service in Wilmington has to be paid for, by a betterment and an area charge, if the sewer is installed by the town. This includes all the sewers in which part of the costs were paid by the federal and state governments.

The costs for the three streets would have been $77,000. The town would pay 45 percent, and the residents would have to pay 55 percent. For a family on a 10,000 square foot lot, with a 100 foot frontage on the street the cost would be 12½ cents per square foot ($1250) and 12.17 per frontage foot ($1217). The charge for connecting the home to the sewer main would be extra.

The charges, without the sewer connection, thus would be approximately $2500, payable in 20 years, if the homeowners wish, or in cash. There would be a low interest rate.

After the residents left Smith estimated that some of the homeowners could be paying as high as $5,000, about 10 years from now, for repairs to their sewer system. The commissioners will not act on this article in the town meeting, they decided, without any further input from the residents of the three streets.

No decision was made by the commissioners on April 5 regarding a proposed extension of the Grove Avenue sewer onto Lake Street, to service the Shawsheen School. Further studies are needed as to whether the sewer should go by the way of Lake Street or instead down Shawsheen Avenue to a connection with the sewer main in the vicinity of Sherburn Place or the Fred Cain bridge.

A gravity sewer would be the case on Lake Street, but there would be the cost of going under the Boston & Maine Railroad, which could be expensive. A sewer main going along Shawsheen Avenue would, on the other hand be "uphill" for at least a part of the distance. That could mean a very deep trench in the area of Sherburn Place, but no charge for a railroad crossing.

Emile Hemway, an engineer from Reading, will conduct a study. He can use, in part, some of the studies on Lake Street already done by the Wilmington town engineers. The town manager had a figure for the Lake Street installation of $270,000, and for a new septic tank at the Shawsheen School of $80,000.

There are five homes on Lake Street which would have to pay betterment charges, although the greater part of the installation cost would be paid by tax money, voted in town meeting.

Wildcats recount winners, 73-72

After recounting the score following Friday afternoon's MVC track meet with Billerica, it was determined that the Wilmington High School boys had indeed defeated the perennial powerful Indians, 73-72. Originally, due to a scoring error, the final tally had been reversed in Billerica's favor.

Wilmington won eight of the 15 events, with sophomore Frank Dinsmore leading the way with wins in the triple jump and the 880. Dinsmore also anchored the winning mile relay team.

The Caizzi brothers also helped spark coach Frank Kelley's boys. Steve Caizzi won the 440 and placed second in the long jump, while brother Paul took second places in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

In the final contest of the day, a much taller Senior Division East All-Star squad defeated a game West All-Star outfit, 74-35. Pacing the East's well-balanced scoring attack was Brian Kobelski with 14 points. Jay Kelley added 12 and Ted Sullivan came up with 10. Jim Fardin, Jim Sullivan, and Richard Prince all had six points to lead the West scoring. Pat Brooks and Robby Busch tossed in four apiece.

Letter to the sports editor

Youth hoop says thanks

Dear Rick:

Having been associated with Tewksbury Youth Basketball for the past five years, we wish to express our thanks to all the volunteer coaches who donated their time for practices and games with dedication and loyalty to the youngsters of Tewksbury. Also, thanks to the men and women who volunteered their time to referee. It is not easy for these people, who in most cases, never officiated a game before.

It is impossible for us to list every person involved in this program over the last five years because the list is so long, but to name a few, we would like to thank: the Recreation Department, Tewksbury Athletic Director Bob Aylward, secretary Mary Maguire, all of the schools' custodians, Father Blaney and the Saint William's Church for the use of the facilities for our meetings and Phil French for his help with the bowl-a-thons - without which the league would never have been able to award trophies and sweat shirts at the various banquets throughout the years.

There is no way we can show the respect and friendship that we have toward everyone associated with this league.

It has been a very productive and fruitful five years for both of us. We wish continued success for Tewksbury Youth Basketball in the years to come.

Sincerely yours,
Ed Krzesinski and
Ed Blades

Wilmington girls win Tewksbury tournament

The Wilmington girls' fifth and sixth grade all-stars won their division championship in the Tewksbury Girls' Invitational Tournament in Tewksbury this past weekend by defeating North Reading, 28-17.

The road to the championship was accomplished with wins over a strong Hudson, N.H. team, 26-17 and a stubborn Masconomet squad, 21-14. Led by the coaching of Joan Sullivan and Nancy Woods, a total team effort was put forth for this championship.

In the final game, Wilmington broke open early and led from start to finish. Kris Cavanaugh led all scorers with 12 points, followed by Ann Marie Andersen and Carla DeSantis with five points apiece and Gina Martiniello with four points.

Leading the defense with overall hustle and steals were Colleen Dunham, Ginny Cosgrove, Nicki Zarella, Jennifer Bowen, Dinelle Erwin and Michele Eddy.

Wilmington runner-up With one second to go, Carla DeSantis let one go from 16 feet that went in and out, as Wilmington came up short in a 12-10 loss to a well disciplined Hudson, N.H. team in the championship game of the Merrimack Invitational Tournament.

The scoring for Wilmington was led by Gina Martiniello and Ann Marie Andersen with four points each, with additional scoring from Kris Cavanaugh and Carla DeSantis.

Overall hustle was contributed by Ginny Cosgrove, Dinelle Erwin and Colleen Dunham, with strong defense by Nicki Zarella, Jennifer Bowen and Michele Eddy.

After an easy 25-8 win over Methuen in the first round, coaches Joan Sullivan and Nancy Woods relied on a total team effort along with the clutch free throw shooting of Kris Cavanaugh to send the semifinal game against Middleton into overtime. Wilmington survived in an exciting 24-20 thriller.

Ann Marie Andersen was named to the All-Tourney team, with the Sportsmanship Award going to Carla DeSantis.

Wilmington Youth Basketball

Tourneys provide experience

The past few weeks have been tournament time for Wilmington's young traveling basketball teams, as one or more of the squads entered in a tournament. The schedule included trips to the Merrimack College Tourney, Somerville Boys Club Tourney, Woburn Boys Club Tourney and the Wakefield and the Mount Wachusett Tourney in Gardner.

Although no championship trophies were brought home, the boys garnered valuable experience at all age levels, as they competed with teams from all over Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire.

Seventh graders bow
The seventh graders lost their first game in the Somerville Tourney, as they bowed to an excellent city team from Jamaica Plain, 69-26, as Steve Hanafin led the local scoring for the locals with 11 points. Brian Davis had seven, Jon Masse five, Mark Palmisano three and Ron Pennie one point.

At the Wakefield Tournament the seventh graders lost to Beverly in the quarterfinal, 38-27. Jeff Bowen and Steve Hanafin shared high scoring honors with seven apiece. Jeff Botte hit for four, while Andy Parr, Brian Davis, Brian Pupa and Jon Masse all had two each. Mark Vigliotti had one.

Hanafin pulled in eight rebounds, Masse and Bowen four each, Pupa three, and Pentinen one. Defensive pressure was supplied by Mike Buonopane, Mark Palmisano, Ron Pennie and Jason Oliver.

The boys traveled to Gardner March 31 to play Tewksbury in the Mount Wachusett Community College Tournament, losing, 54-42. Jeff Botte led the scoring with a season high 12 points, Steve Hanafin hit 11, Brian Davis hit for nine, Jon Masse seven and Jeff Bowen three points.

Sixth graders start fast
The fledgling sixth graders entered the Merrimack College Tournament, getting off to a great start as they trounced Bradford, 42-8. Jamie Robichaud led the scoring parade with 10 points. Mark Bobek followed with nine, while Mike George and Joe Mahoney had four each. Scott Tuxbury and Larry Flynn hooped three apiece. Joe McFadyen, Mike Burns, Bob Caruso and Chris Riccio each had two points, and Jeff Maiella had one.

Everyone got in the act under the boards, with Bobek leading the rebounders with 12. Tuxbury had nine, Robichaud eight, Greg Maiella two, Joe Mulowney two and Eric Eisenberg pulled down a single rebound.

In the quarterfinal, the locals ran into a Hampstead, N.H. team and lost, 42-22. Jamie Robichaud led the scoring with 12 points. Mark Bobek added four. Graig Maiella, Bob Caruso and Joe Mahoney each hit for two points, while Robichaud and Bobek led the rebounding action with 13 and 11 respectively. Tuxbury and Mahoney pulled in four boards apiece. Greg Maiella, Mike George and Bob Caruso each had one rebound.

Working hard at the defensive end of the court were McFadyen, Mulowney, Eisenberg, Burns and Jeff Maiella.

Eighth graders with a busy schedule

During the past two weeks, the eighth grade traveling team has been competing in both the Wakefield and Merrimack College tournaments, winning their first games, but losing in the quarterfinal contests.

At the Wakefield Field House, Wilmington defeated St. Adelaide's from Peabody, 59-41, as the boys overcame a four point deficit at the half, but were able to roar to an 18 point win. Mike Lombard led the scoring with 15 points, while pulling down 11 rebounds and rejecting three shots. Don Corson sank 11 points, Eric Pentinen 10, Pat Nally nine, Dan Woods six, Tom Moran four, and two each from Tim Moran and Tony DeSantis.

Helping out under the boards were Corson with 10 rebounds, along with Nally and Pentinen with eight each. Manning the defense was Tim Fay, Jonathan Oliver, Paul Maiella and Kevin Ouellette.

In quarterfinal action, the eighth graders ran into a red-hot North Andover team and dropped a hard fought 63-50 decision. Lombard again was top scorer with 21 points and Don Corson followed with eight. Nally, Pentinen, Ouellette and Tim Moran each sank four points. Jon Oliver and Paul Maiella each had two, while DeSantis had a point. Joe McMenimen was unable to play at Wakefield due to an age cutoff point.

Wilmington posted a victory in the Merrimack College Tournament, topping the Woburn

Boys Club, 36-23, as Lombard hit for 14 points, Joe McMenimen 10, Corson three, and two points each from Nally, Pentinen, Woods and Maiella. Putting the squeeze on the Woburn offense were Jon Oliver, Tim Moran, Tim Fay, and Kevin Ouellette.

In the quarterfinal game at Merrimack College Field House, Wilmington just could not do anything right during the first half, scoring only 14 points to Derry's 22. The pace picked up in the last quarter, as McMenimen tied the score at 42 with one minute left to play, only to see his team fall at the final buzzer, 45-42.

The scoring was led by McMenimen with 21 points, Corson with 11, Lombard with eight and Pentinen with two.

There were over 75 teams of boys and girls ranging from the sixth through the eighth grades entered in the Merrimack College Tournament that has become an annual event run by the Student Athletic Association of Merrimack College.

Bengals edge Chelmsford

The Tewksbury seventh and eighth grade girls basketball team excelled in tournament play this past week. The Bengals were the surprise team in the Tewksbury Girls' Invitational Tournament, advancing all the way to the finals.

In the opening, round the local girls edged Chelmsford, 30-27. This was not a pretty win, but the Bengals dug in tight to hold on for the victory. The Bengals' offense was led by the inside play of Frannie Nawossa, 10 points and Karen Goglia, eight points, with the rest of the scoring from Julie Anzivino and Stacie Whynot with four points each. Missy Catalano three points and Lisa McLean one point.

Tewksbury 37 Masconomet 18. In the quarterfinal round, Tewksbury thumped Masconomet, 37-18. This was a neck and neck game for three quarters, but the Bengals bolted down the hatches with a 13-0 run in the final quarter. Paving the way for the Bengals were Frannie Nawossa, 12 points; Julie Anzivino and Karen Goglia with six points each; and Stacie Whynot and Lisa McLean with four points each. Tough defensive games were played by Tricia Mazzone, Suzette Beaulieu, Maryellen Edwards and Amy DiRocco.

Tewksbury 44 Everett 38. In semifinal action, the Tewksbury girls eliminated Everett, 44-38 and catapulted into the finals. The local girls outgunned the Everett shooters at their own style. Highlighting the offense was Stacie Whynot, who found the long range shooting touch, pumping in 12 points. Missy Catalano also played a fine game with 10 points. Karen Goglia and Frannie Nawossa played strong inside, and tossed in seven and six points respectively for the Bengals.

Tewksbury also had fine efforts turned in by Kelly Sheehan, Laura Boyden, Lisa Whelton, Diane DeVita and Suzette Beaulieu.

Hudson 40 Tewksbury 27
In the finals Tewksbury met up with the tournament favorite, Hudson, N.H. The local girls hung tough, but Hudson came away the winner, 40-27. The Bengals stayed within striking distance until late in the third quarter when the Hudson press was just too much to handle and the local girls could not find the shooting touch.

Leading the way for Tewksbury were Julie Anzivino and Karen Goglia with five points each and Diane DeVita, Frannie Nawossa and Leanne Babine with four apiece.

The Bengals got strong performances from Missy Catalano, Tricia Mazzone and Lisa Whelton.

The loss ended the Bengals' season, but not on a sour note. The Tewksbury girls can hold their heads high, as they put up a good fight, staying much closer to Hudson than any of their previous opponents.

For a first year travelling team, they can be proud of their total improvement from day one. They went from losing four of their first five games to finish with a record of 8-6.

The 1984 Bengal stars were eighth graders Julie Anzivino, Leanne Babine, Laura Boyden, Missy Catalano, Diane DeVita, Amy DiRocco, Maryellen Edwards, Karen Goglia, Lisa McLean, Frannie Nawossa, Kelly Sheehan, Lisa Whelton, Stacie Whynot and future seventh grade talents Suzette Beaulieu and Tricia Mazzone. The coach was Mike Whelton, Jr.

Title game defense

Tewksbury team stayed close until the third quarter, when Westford just wore the local girls down. The Tewksbury offense came from Kelly Byrne, Colleen Doherty and Pam Picano with two points each, along with Jennifer Briggs with one point. The stars received fine games from Stephanie Beaulieu and Jennifer Tarode.

Senior Stars win opener

The Tewksbury Senior Stars held off the Dracut Dodgers in opening round action and came away with a 35-31 win. The key to this game was free throws, as Tewksbury made 28 for 37 from the line.

The ace shooters for the Stars were Chris Blake with 11 points and Renee Lombardi with 10. Rounding out the scoring were Jeannie Sullivan (5), Tracy Danner (3), Debbie Byrne, Lori Zotto (2 each) and Jodi Sutherland and Chris Stanton with one point apiece. The Stars also got strong games from Stephanie Rhodes and Kelly

McNamara.

The Tewksbury Senior Stars were unable to catch Westford in quarterfinal play, falling, 42-39. The Stars were led by Jeannie Sullivan (16), Renee Lombardi (15) and Lori Zotto (6). Strong defensive efforts were turned in by Chris Stanton, Lynn Ploof and Tricia Censullo.

Jessica qualifies for state meet

Wilmington's Jessica Harrison turned in an outstanding performance in the recent state qualifying gymnastics meet held April 7 at the Montvale School of Gymnastics in Woburn.

Jessie earned enough points in the required four events to enable her to participate in the state meet to be held later this month.

defensive game along with coming up with some big rebounds. Keith Sullivan, Rob Williams and Jason Leavault also played well for the victors.

Tewksbury continues tournament play Thursday night, facing St. Catherine's of Lynn at 6:40.

TMHS boys' spring track preview

Redmen gear for unpredictable, competitive spring

Tewksbury High School's boys' varsity track and field team opens up its season this week under coaches Steve Levine and Bill Piscione, with youth and inexperience making for an unpredictable, but possibly very competitive spring.

A team of 44 boys comprised of five seniors, 11 juniors, 19 sophomores and nine freshmen will be going into the opening meet with many questions as to which event is the best for each individual, but with the knowledge that everything should come together as the weather improves and competition continues.

Under the new practice schedule of three day weeks, with different groups practicing each weekday, the enthusiasm level appears positive. The team is lead by quad captains Kent Appleby, a senior hurdler and javelin thrower, Steven Murphy, a junior middle distance-distance man and a potential pole vaulter, and Buddy MacAllister, a sophomore who had a sensational season for the now defunct freshmen track team last year as a hurdler and triple jumper as well as long jumper, and sophomore Richie Lapham, a converted middle distance man to sprinter who also was a mainstay on last year's undefeated freshmen boys' track and field team.

Seniors who will be counted on for leadership this season will be sprinter-javelin man Patrick Sands, weightman Steven MacPherson, along with weightman Doug Davidson and distance man Kevin Comtois.

Juniors joining Murphy include sprinter-high jumper Tim Monahan, middle distance runner-jumper Gene Weitz, weightmen Joe Fazio and Sean Doherty, sprinter-jumper Paul McSweeney, distance ace-javelin man Karl Kresien and distance man Gary Corbett, John Griffin and Dave Flanagan.

The talented sophomore crew joining MacAllister and Lapham include Mark Christoffels, another top sprinter and triple long high jumper from last year's freshmen team, Doug Noyes, an outstanding discus thrower and shot putter, Chris McHardy, a discus thrower and middle distance man of great potential, Ed Piscopo, an outstanding talent in any running or jumping event, Jimmy Collins, a hard working middle distance runner-low hurdler-triple jumper, Mike Goodine, high jumper-long jumper-hurdler and middle distance man, hurdlers Scott Karlberg and Joe Roscillo, middle distance runner Steve Ellwood (880), weightman Charlie Santagati, multi-talented Jim Evangelista, sprinter-high jumper-long jumper Steve Moore, weightman and hurdler Richie Hadley, sprinter-javelin man Matt Grund and distance man Dave Cleland, Brian Tremblay and Dave Bernardi.

This year's freshmen include the league's future outstanding sprinter-long jumper Ken Coviello, Bobby Busch (excellent potential in the distance events), sprinter-middle distance man Peter Riddle and Keith Bennett, middle distance man-jumper Peter Smith and distance man Peter Ferguson, Eric Hanson, Jimmy Marsh and Tim McCaffery—all runners who probably will not score, but will show good potential for the future of this year's boys' track and field team.

Indoor coach Dennis McGadden, is also donating his time several days a week to aid in the building of the program. Jim Fitzgibbons, a decathlete athlete at the University of Lowell, will be working with the pole vaulters and hurdlers during the course of the season.

Street hockey tournament

The First Annual Bill Murphy Street Hockey Tournament, with the proceeds to benefit the American Cancer Society, will be held April 27, 28 and 29 at Lawrence's Mike Noone Street Hockey Rink at the South Lawrence Common.

The entry deadline is April 23. Rosters are limited to 20 players, and there is a $60.00 entry fee.

The tournament is open to players 18 years of age and over. Prizes will be awarded, refreshments are available and there will be a drawing at some point during the tourney.

For additional information, contact the Lawrence Recreation Department at 685-1821, or Dick Bourgoin at 689-4592.

North Reading basketball camp

The third annual North Reading Basketball Camp will be held at North Reading High School July 23-27. The camp will again be under the direction of North Reading High School basketball coach Barry Kipnes. Other members of the staff will be Rich Butterworth of Hamilton-Wenham High School, Mike McVeigh and Barry Humphreys of North Andover High School and Tom Galagher of Chelmsford High School. The day camp will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The camp is for boys entering grades seven, eight and nine, and will place heavy emphasis on fundamentals. All areas of individual play will be covered, and games will be played every day. Enrollment is limited to allow ample playing time and attention to each camper.

In the past two years campers have attended from Chelmsford, Lynnfield, Methuen, Newburyport, North Reading, Peabody, Tewksbury, Wakefield, and Wilmington.

Tuition for the week is only $75 and includes t-shirts, certificates of attendance, fundamental handbook and coach's evaluation.

Renovation rally Saturday

Window signs are but one of many means being used to present the message: Renovate. The project, of course, is the renovation of Wilmington High School, which is the subject of a referendum in the April 21 election and a warrant article in the April 28 town meeting. An informational rally will be held on Wilmington Common on Saturday, April 14 from 10 to 2 p.m. Tours of the high school will be conducted, and festivities will take place on the common.

Zoning by-law bind puts restaurant in a pickle

Mancini's Restaurant, 212 Main St., Wilmington, has been caught in a zoning bylaw bind. Because of this the owners are seeking a change in zoning, in the April town meeting (Article 30).

The zoning for the building is General Business. A new zoning district, created about 10 years ago, is called High Density Business District (HDBD). It is for restaurants, garages, and other businesses which may attract a lot of automobiles. The idea is to keep autos from being parked in a public highway.

HDBD distinguishes, too, between two types of restaurant. Small service restaurants are one class, and the other is called General Service Restaurant. That type is one that can serve alcoholic beverages. There must be seating for at least 100 patrons, and it can be only in zoning which is HDBD.

It is that type of zoning which Mancini's seeks. It took several conferences and appeals board hearings to bring out the facts. Part of the proceedings could be called a comedy of errors, except for the fact that the two owners were paying dearly for the lost time. Those men are Dan Turcotte of Billerica and Jim Meehan of Tewksbury.

Dan Turcotte related the story to the Wilmington Planning Board on April 3, in a public hearing on zoning articles in the coming town meeting.

"They seek to enlarge their building to seat 100 patrons. In other words they seek to have High Density Zoning, with a subsequent special permit by the board of appeals."

The two men, in November 1982, purchased the building where they have been doing business for some years. They then set about getting plans to enlarge it. They had a conference with appeals board members in February 1983, and there was a public hearing on April 12, 1983.

At no time in the record of that hearing was the term General Service Restaurant used, nor, it seems was there mention of the proposed sale of alcoholic beverages. This may have been an oversight.

The appeals board was told that the two men had purchased the restaurant, and the garage next door. They proposed to add to the restaurant by building up to the garage for kitchen space, to add 1600 feet to the present building.

There would be a combined frontage of 200 feet and a total area of 53,000 square feet. There would be a seating capacity of 100. The director of the board of health had approved for the benefit of the public, and from a public health standpoint.

The appeals board approved an addition which would not exceed 50 percent of the combined present flooring and open area devoted to "such use."

The vote was to grant the application. There was nothing said as to the area involved in that vote.

Seven months later, on November 29, 1983, the appeals board said that there had been an error. This was because a question had been raised by the two men. The area of the building addition was to be 825 feet, the board said, not sixteen hundred feet.

This, for the two men, was not an inexpensive proposition. The plans they had drawn cost them $1000. A contractor had been stockpiling material. They had ordered equipment for their restaurant.

The November decision had been labeled "Supplemental and Interpretive Decision." It concerned an issue that had been raised by the applicants about the April 12, 1983 decision.

There was another hearing, on February 10, 1984. The proposal was now to alter and extend the two existing buildings owned by the two men (the restaurant and the garage) so as to establish a new and different use which is allowed only in a High Density Business District, and then only by special permit of the board of appeals.

The appeals board in its decision noted the differences in the type of zoning being requested. For the first time it noted that the request was for a general service restaurant of zoning being requested. In effect, the planning board said, the applicant seeks to convert a non-conforming garage to a general service restaurant, and to convert and extend a non-conforming restaurant to a different use, namely a general service restaurant.

This, the appeals board said, would amount to the board "usurping" the responsibilities of the Wilmington Town Meeting.

The applicant's proper course, the appeals board said, is to petition the town meeting to rezone the land to High Density Business District. Then, in accordance with the zoning bylaws, there can be a petition to the board of appeals for the special permit required for a general service restaurant.

the town its best chance for additional housing.

The proposal for the land near Lucci's includes 60 units of conventional housing for elderly persons, plus 20 units of congregate housing. The proposal also provides for 20 units of scattered site housing, to be built elsewhere, under Chapter 705. The 9-acres of land for the 80 unit complex would be bought from John Lucci. Lucci has proposed a sewer project that would serve the new housing, his shopping center and new buildings he is proposing on the northerly side of Lowell Street, including another new building for Avco.

Wilmington police news

Ten accidents, 23 alarms, 10 disturbances and two cases of break and entry were logged by the Wilmington Police Department from April 3 to April 10. There were seven reports of larceny, one case of protective custody, and two reports of missing persons.

Six cases of suspicious activity were reported. There was one sex crime. Three stolen motor vehicles were recovered. Six complaints of traffic problems and four reports of vandalism complete the list.

John W. Wharff, 24, of 52 Bayview Dr., Swampscott was arrested on April 3 by officers Parsons and Matarese. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle after revocation of license.

Teresa J. Lancelotti, 19, of 23 Pinehurst Ave. was arrested that same evening on a default warrant, for larceny by check.

The arrest was made by officers Parsons and Matarese.

Friday evening Officer Jepson arrested Daniel P. Walsh, 30, of 747 Woburn St., Wilmington. The arrest was on a warrant from the North Reading Police, charging assault with a dangerous weapon.

William C. Dagoumas of Lowell was arrested early Sunday morning by Georgetown Police on a warrant issued in Wilmington. He is charged with larceny of over $100.

James Casello of 2A Cady St., Billerica was arrested by the Billerica Police Sunday evening on a Wilmington warrant. He was charged with the possession of narcotics.

Lorens E. Dunnett, 21, of 815 Woburn St., Wilmington was arrested Monday evening on a motor vehicle default warrant from Wilmington. The arrest was made by Officer Neville.

Sewer planning begun to halt 'brush-fires'

The Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners have decided to start studies for a new sewer system, to service east Wilmington and other parts of town now unserved. There are at this time, two requests for extensions which are in effect "hanging fire" because those extensions would not be in line with past planning. The requests are to extend a sewer to the Shawshen School, and to extend the sewer to the Lucci area, including a proposed additional building for Avco, northerly of Lowell Street.

Chairman George Allan calls such requests "brush-fires." More will keep popping up, he predicts, and if, because of such brush-fires, sewers are extended without conforming to a master plan, an expensive hodge-podge of sewer extensions may develop.

The original sewer plans were made back about 1954, when the town manager was Joseph Courtney, cost $20,000. The Federal government made the plans for future use, with the town obligated to pay for the plans if and when they were used. Probably over one half of the plans are unused, and the sewer system as it is today does not conform to the original plans because of area growth.

One puzzle, out of several, has the commissioners scratching their heads. There is an invert ready for use in a 27 inch sewer near Maple Meadow Brook and the Boston and Maine Railroad. No one is certain why the invert is located where it is. The engineers working with the town at that time are no longer so employed. There is no record.

At the present time efforts will be devoted to gathering all possible plans from engineering firms that have worked on the Wilmington sewer plans. Then, sometime in the future, the commissioners will begin to plan out future extensions of the sewer, in order that they may not encounter more brush-fires.

Wilmington senior topics

Storm emergencies

The Council on Aging was happy to have been available to seniors during the March 29 snowstorm. Over 30 telephone calls were taken into the Senior Center Friday, March 30 — calls from lonely, frightened seniors. A few words of reassurance was all it took for some. Others needed food or medical supplies which were purchased and delivered to them. Several others had lost electric heat and a means of preparing a meal. To solve this problem, the Council turned to the Vial of Life Program, one of the many programs under the Council on Aging available to assist seniors when needed.

When a senior receives an I.D. card they also receive a Vial of Life form. This form is a questionnaire in duplicate. It contains all questions asked of a person when entering a hospital. One copy of the form is placed after completion into a plastic medicine bottle. A small read heart decal affixed to the bottle. A Vial of Life decal is affixed on the outside of the refrigerator. When a person is taken to the

'Break Dancing': The kids love it

SAUGUS — Do not be overly shocked if one day your son comes home from school and announces that he wants to take dance lessons.

Since the advent of Break Dancing in the Boston area, boys and girls of all ages have been flocking to Charleena's School of Dance and Karate Studio to learn the latest rage.

"It's been around for two years at the most in the Boston area," reported Steve Berardina, who teaches the style at Charleena's. He went on to explain that, "it got real popular within the last year after the release of the hit movie Flashdance." Berardina also noted that the style has been popular for the last ten years in New York, where it got its start.

Charleena Diranian, owner of the school, said that, "the style got its start in Harlem." She explained that when two gangs came together, instead of fighting, they would challenge each other to Break.

Berardina pointed out that the street gangs have stopped fighting, mainly because to become good takes up a lot of time. He said, "instead of drinking, the kids go to a cellar and practice."

Although Charleena's students do not consist of organized gangs, they do usually come in groups. Charleena tells the story of one prospective student, "I had to show him the list of students. Then he wouldn't come because he didn't know anyone on the list." She then went on to show the waiting list of 26 people, most of which are in groups of five or six friends.

The reaction of the parents of the students adds a positive note. However, when asked about the possible dangers because of some of the movements, Betsy Rogers of Wakefield commented, "I worry some." She went on to indicate that the benefit outweighed the worry by saying, "I think it's wonderful that boys can now dance and play sports and still be considered cool."

Other mothers have echoed that thought, according to Charleena, who noted that one mother said, "thank God, I never thought my son would take dance lessons." Charleena pointed out that even her own two sons are studying Break Dancing and neither one of them have ever studied dance before.

Not only is it bringing boys into the dance studio, but Charleena reports that, "more boys than girls are taking it." She also points out that her students are serious about it and this is evident in the work they do in the studio.

Steve Savia, Jay Pike and Dan Blaisdell, three high school students from Lynn, practice together about two hours a day every day of the week.

What is this dance craze that's being done in most major cities? According to Berardina, it's done to "wrap music — which is performed by groups such as Space Patrol and Grand Master Flash and Run DMC. Radio stations like "Magic 109 play wrap music during the day," he continued, "and WRES, the Emerson College Station, plays it at night."

To describe Break Dancing is difficult. It consists of such moves as popping, rolling, suicide diving, spinning on one hand or even one's head, and there's even a move called the worm. The final move is usually a diving flopping motion across the floor.

Popping and rolling resemble classic moves used in Belly Dancing. You may also recognize moves from the jitterbug and the classical Russian Wedding Dance.

When asked about the dangers, 22-year-old Berardina, a soccer and baseball player, noted that it can be dangerous if you're not careful. However, both he and Charleena point out that as long as you listen to your teacher and your teacher is watching you, then you minimize the risk of injury.

You can catch Berardina every Friday and Saturday night at the Uptown or the Wings room at the Palace.

How about a computer camp

The campfire songs have all ended. You slip into your sleeping bag. Woodsmoke and pine scent the air. And, you can barely sleep, because tomorrow is the day your computer program might work.

This kind of scene occurs hundreds of times each year, in computer camps all over the country. In just six years, these camps have grown from barebones operations to highly effective blends of computer education and healthy outdoor fun. And, in spite of the fun, these camps offer a kind of computer exposure one simply cannot get from any other educational resource.

Easily half of the typical computer-camper's day is spent with, or learning about, the machines. Getting to a computer isn't usually hard. Many camps provide machines for all, or almost all, participants. This is a better ration than one can find in most schools.

Computer-related camp activities range from lectures, through actual programming, to long-term individual or group projects. Through these, the camper gains unique first-hand experience with a variety of systems, software and peripherals — and with the real-world nature of team projects.

In addition, computer camp is about the only place where one can chat at length with hardware and software designers from the computer companies themselves. Camps offer a constantly changing calendar of working experts in system applications and design.

Of course, not every camp is nestled among the pines. Depending on its location, a camp may add its own unique theme, such as "The Wild West" or "The Snowy Peaks." Other camps — usually in or near central cities — provide days, or weeks, or training in classrooms — like settings. Usually these classes are held in churches, libraries and schools, so they offer a low-cost alternative to residential camps. However, the true "camp-in-the-woods" still appeals to anyone who wants to mix computer classes with canoeing, fly-casting and nature-crafts.

And, computer camps are not just for children. With more adults seeking computer "literacy," the options are expanding for training with play. Perhaps the ultimate in adult computer-camping can be found in Punta Cana, in the Dominican Republic. There, in its lush tropical resort, Club Med's "Computer Village" caters to both children and adults.

According to Patrice Roberts, store manager of the Reading Computerland store, "Several tips should help you find the perfect retreat:

—First, different camps use different computers. So, if you own, or plan to own, a specific machine, go where it is available.

Next, pick the right price and curriculum. These vary greatly. And the best way to pin down the facts is to call the camps directly.

And, pick a camp that seems to care about its service. Many of the better camps require attendees to complete personal-information questionnaires. This helps ensure that the camper is placed in a group — and works on projects — that match his or her experience. With weekly fees ranging to hundreds of dollars, computer camps must collect such information, if they are to make your investment worthwhile."

Specific information on camps in your area may be found in many ways. Sunday newspapers carry camp advertisements in Business, Travel, Classified or special Camp sections. Also, some computer manufacturers run their own camps, with their own machines and their own expert staff. And, one can also get leads through computer magazines and the yellow pages, under "Camps."

Whether a novice or expert, you can find a camp to fit your needs. Try one out. I think you'll be surprised how much fun computer education can be.

The following are major camps operating in New England: Atari Computer Camps, headquartered in New York City; Champlain College Computer Camp, Burlington, Vermont; Computer Camps International, Vernon, Connecticut; Computer-Ed, Inc., at Babson College, Weston, Mass.; Computer Explorations, care of Williston Northampton School, Easthampton, Mass.; Computer Tutors — at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., and at Dartmouth College, Hanover, New Hampshire; Family Computer Camp, Pot-sdam, New York; Marist College Computer Camp, Poughkeepsie, New York and National Computer Camp, Orange, Connecticut.

Home improvement and information Referral center is now open

The Home Improvement Information and Contractor Referral Center began serving homeowners in the greater Boston area in March of 1983. The Center provides homeowners with practical information on how to contract for home improvements and repairs. The Center serves as a knowledgeable reference source for those homeowners interested in checking on the work of a listed contractor, and as a trusted source of referral for homeowners seeking the names of contractors who might assist them. Homeowners are not charged for Center services. The only obligation of the homeowner is to complete and return a Performance Evaluation Form rating the performance of the contractor going the work.

Prior to listing contractors, the Center checks with the Better Business Bureau to be sure that there are not complaints outstanding against them. In making a referral, the Center considers the following factors: a match of the principal job requirements to the in-house skills of the contractor; contractor location relative to that of the homeowner's residence. Homeowner ratings of the contractor's past work; the contractor's manpower and financial capacity to handle the job and contractor licenses and certifications required to engage in the work.

The Home Improvement Information and Contractor Referral Center, a non-profit public service organization, can be reached at 444-0222.

For people who want to join (or stay with) the 34 million joggers in the U.S. the coed Beginners Jogging program will start on April 2 and again on May 2. Both programs meet Mondays and Wednesdays at 5:30 p.m. and are for people who need to get in shape.

If you want to exercise but need to do slowly, Exercise for Health is for you. Section One meets on Monday and Thursday at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. and is geared for those over age 55. This section is by a Registered Physical Therapist. Section Two, meeting Tuesday and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. is offered for those wanting to lose weight. Men and women of all ages who have any physical limitations can join either of these groups.

Wakefield Camera Club

On March 20th the Wakefield Camera Club held its monthly color competition. Mr. Ron Laing of Melrose, and of the former Chairman of the Lynn Camera Club Study Group. He is also a three-star PSA photographer and has won two gold medals in the International color competitions.

Ron first showed the club about 25 slides of his own beautiful slides of landscapes and seascapes, colorful gas balloons, people, and others and indicated what he thought could have been done to improve them and pointed out why others succeeded in winning ribbons. He judged our slides giving his fair and unbiased remarks and comments and showed how each could have resulted in a better slide from the standpoint of composition, impact, subject material, etc. We learned a lot from his able critique and thank him sincerely for judging and helping out as he did.

The winners for March 20th as follows: Nature: first - Untitled, Milton Freeman; second - Amber Twin, Janet Grady; third - Early Spring, Larry Babine; h.m. -

DOES YOUR CHILD'S REPORT CARD REFLECT HIS POTENTIAL?

Unsatisfactory grades don't always mean lack of ability. Often students have educational gaps that hinder progress in one or more subjects. They don't get the special attention they need in school at a critical point in one or more subjects, or they simply lack good study skills. We're here to give them the personal attention, education tools, and confidence they need to maximize their own potential. Serving local students for six years.

YOUR GARDEN

A few tips on saving time, energy, and money this year

By Martha J. Beckman
Special to The Christian Science Monitor

If you know a few tricks of the trade, you can save energy, time, and money in your garden this year. Keep a small pad and pencil on your workbench, for example, and make a list of garden-shopping needs and things to do.

A shoe bag provides great space for tools, spray cans, seed packets, gloves, and other small- to medium-sized equipment. Other handy holders for tools can be made by nailing mousetraps to a shop wall.

A child's wagon will make light work of carrying bags of fertilizer, peat moss, flowerpots, and other bulky equipment to the garden.

Also, think now about what tools you have and will need to do the gardening with minimum effort.

Plan to exchange or borrow tools from a friend or neighbor rather than buy new ones. Watch for tools you may need and buy them at garage sales.

Any gardening book will teach you how to plant, tend, and harvest a garden. Here are other ideas the veterans are eager to share:

Equipment. In preparing your workshop for gardening, hang a big calendar and a pencil on a string over the workbench, on a wall, or wherever you keep tools and supplies. Each time you spray, side-dress (dig fertilizer into the ground), or otherwise treat a plant, note it on the calendar. The calendar can also record information that will be useful for the next gardening season, such as dates for "first planted, first sprouts, first blooms, first picked, and last picked."

Install a paper-towel holder and keep towels handy for cleaning hands, harvesting root vegetables, or for wrapping the stem ends of herbs or flowers for a neighborly over-the-fence gift.

Get three plastic buckets. Mark one for water only, another for mixing fungicides and insecticides, and the third for weed killers. Having three buckets saves the thorough cleaning you'd otherwise have to do if you tried to use one pail for all three functions.

In a plastic bag put a measuring cup, measuring spoons, and funnel. Keep the bag in one of the pails, handy for mixing solutions.

Put a 30-gallon trash bucket in the garden and keep it filled with water from the hose. You can quickly dip out buckets of water when you see plants needing it. Use the lid on it to keep out leaves and insects.

A roll of masking tape on your work counter is handy for labeling, wrapping stems, and many other uses.

You can make a handy apron for dirty work from a large plastic bag, simply cutting out holes for your head and arms. Or make another apron from a shoe bag by putting ties on the sides for around your waist and elastic at the top to go around your neck. Keep whatever you need in the pockets when you go to the garden.

Old egg cartons are useful for planting seeds and can be easily carried to the garden for transplanting the seedlings.

Put your name on tools, either by plastic labels or with masking tape. If you lend them, you're more likely to get them back.

To find tools easily in the garden, paint the handles with white enamel paint.

If you use metal trash cans, prevent them from rusting by melting paraffin, pouring it in, and then rotating the can to let the paraffin completely cover the bottom.

If you plan to garden in sneakers, first spray them with starch. After using them, reclean with powdered cleanser and an old toothbrush, again spraying them with starch. You can keep any shoes cleaner by putting a pair of worn-out socks over them. You can wash the socks or simply throw them away.

If one of your plastic pails or containers springs a leak, you can often mend it by painting over it on both sides with clear fingernail polish.

A pail of sand with waste oil poured into it is handy to plunge tools into after use, thus keeping the tools oiled and rust-free. Putting a drop of oil on scissors and pruners will make them work easier. If you grease your hands with petroleum jelly and scrape a bar of soap so that it gets under your fingernails before you garden, cleanup is easier.

A package of cheesecloth (about $2) can protect sprouting seeds from hard rains or birds. Stretch a length over the bed and put stones on the corners to hold it down. A piece of cheesecloth wadded into a ball in a funnel makes a good filter for straining solutions. By using a bent clothes hanger, you can make a butterfly net out of cheesecloth to catch those destructive white cabbage butterflies.

A lightweight basket is ideal as a caddy to carry to the garden with you. It can hold:

- Plastic or rubber gloves. Put tufts of cotton inside the fingers of the gloves if you have long fingernails to protect both the gloves and the nails. Gloves are much easier to put on if you use cornstarch or talcum powder inside the gloves, or lubricate your hands with lotion.

- Old panty hose cut into strips are gentle to plants when used to tie them to stakes or to one another.

- Raid your kitchen for an old fork and large spoon. You'll find many uses for them in the garden.

- Sharpen scissors by cutting through aluminum foil several times. Emery boards can sharpen small tools after use.

- A few pieces of charcoal in the basket will keep tools dry and rust-free.

- An old paring knife is handy. Keep it safe in an old toothbrush holder.

- A whisk boom is great for final smoothing of soil and for quick brushups of spills.

Soil preparation and planting. To rake up excess leaves, put down a tarp or plastic drop cloth, rake the leaves onto it, and pull it to the compost heap or wherever you want them. If you want to bag the leaves, use a large plastic bag turned down over an old TV tray table rack.

Ashes from your wood stove or fireplace are excellent fertilizer for acid soils.

Fill a child's wagon with soil, plant seeds in it, and cover with an old window. When it's time to transplant, just pull the portable hotbed to the garden.

Old carpet pieces are handy to kneel on, to place between the rows to prevent weeds, or as weights over pieces of black plastic used to prevent weeds.

Rings cut from plastic bleach jugs work fine around plants to prevent cutworm damage.

Pour leftover coffee and grounds around plants. Earthworms, nature's tillers and aerators of gardens, love them.

- Mark off inches on your trowel and mark off feet on your garden rake with paint, fingernail polish, or a file. This will save you from searching for a ruler when you plant.

Leftover seeds, kept in a closed jar with a packet of moisture absorbent in your refrigerator, will be good for another year.

Finally, keep a lightweight lawn chair handy in the garden. You'll enjoy the peace, beauty, and rewards of your efforts.

FRANK AVRUCH

"The voice of Channel 5," he represents the station at various community and cultural events. A true movie buff, he is the tuxedo-clad host of the nostalgic "Great Entertainment" weekend film series. Avruich's introductions and intermission features sometimes win more praise than the films he showcases from the thirties, forties, and fifties. His inside stories and little known production details have won consistently high ratings for the film series that is now into its tenth year.

It is almost impossible to miss him on weekend television. His familiar face and voice have been a mainstay of WCVB-TV (Channel 5) since the station went on the air in 1972. Frank Avruich, longtime Boston TV personality, has proven that versatility and adaptability pay off. The genial television host has been a favorite of New Englanders for 25 years.

The New England Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will be pleased to see all of their friends and supporters at an exciting event, entitled, "Luncheon With Frank Avruich" on May 2, 1984. Seating for the event will be the Colonial at Lynnfield and tickets may be purchased for $20.00 each by calling Ticket Chairman Diane Bates at 689-9665 or at the Hospital, as well as local spots as advertised in your town.

The Annual Spring Luncheon's proceeds will benefit the hospital. Equipment will be purchased and given by the New England Memorial Hospital Auxiliary as a part of their pledge to support the hospital in its work.

Gainsharing and Productivity, sponsored by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts on Tuesday, May 3, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. at the Marriott Hotel in Newton.

INDIAN MUSICIAN

On Friday, April 20 at 7:30 p.m., the extraordinary Indian sarod player Ustad Amjad Ali Khan will be making one of his first concerts in the U.S. in fourteen years. The event will take place at Paine Hall, at Harvard University's Music Building. Tickets are $10, $8 with a student id., and can be purchased at Sandy's Music. 896 A Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, or by mail from Atopia, Inc., Box 1314 Hvd. Sq., Cambridge, Ma. 02138.

Amjad Ali Khan comes from a long line of virtuoso performers on the sarod. One of his ancestors is actually credited with the invention of the instrument! He is now believed by most standard set by the world-famous Ustad Ali Akbar Khan, and has developed his extraordinary technique and musicality into a meaningful style of his own. His performances are both profound in their emotional and spiritual resonance, and exalting in their fiery displays of passionate melody and rhythm. Amjad Ali Khan is coming to be known throughout the world as a technical and musical phenomenon. He will be accompanied on the traditional Indian rhythm instrument, the tabla, by Rashid Mustapha, a young musician who is making a name for himself with skilled solos and finely-honed accompaniment.

This concert is under the joint sponsorship of Atopia, Inc., The Fogg Museum Department of Islamic Art, and Cambridge Community Performances. These organizations are proud to welcome Amjad Ali Khan to Cambridge. In fact, Governor Dukakis has declared April 20th, the day of the concert, as 'Amjad Ali Khan Day' in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The Mayor of Cambridge is also expected to issue a proclamation of welcome.

Fans of Indian music, and of high-spirited improvisation, will greatly enjoy the performance of Amjad Ali Khan. This is an art-form that will excite listeners from the novice to the aficionado, that will give delight to jazz, folk and classical fans as well as those who have already been initiated into the beauty of Indian music.

Everyone invited to Special Olympics

Preparation is well underway for the Northern Middlesex Special Olympics Games to be held May 5 at Peirce Field in Arlington, an event in which special persons from some 34 area cities and towns will compete for prizes and the opportunity to represent the district in the state and international games.

"We invite anyone who may wish to enter their son or daughter in any one of our dozens of events to register them now," says William Grannan, chairman of the "Countdown '84" program. Registration is a simple process and requires parental permission and a doctor's certification that the athlete is allowed to compete.

In addition to jumping, running, hurdling and many other event for those in various age categories from under 10 to over 25 the May 5 program in Arlington will also feature dancing and music programs for those persons who wish to participate in the Special Olympics but are not interested in athletics.

"Everyone is a winner in the Special Olympics," adds Ken Hodge, state chairman of the event. "Although we do have qualifying events which allows the best to move onto the next level, the local volunteers are working hard to make sure that everyone who attends — parents, young people and the public — enjoy a really super day of activities."

In addition to a full-day program, the Northern Middlesex Games on May 5 will also include special appearances by celebrities and public officials.

Also, a program booklet is being planned for those persons who wish to show their public support and help raise funds for the Special Olympics, a concept developed by Eunice Kennedy Shriver and with the help of a cadre of thousands of volunteers well over a decade ago. Those interested in advertising in the book, which will be distributed across Middlesex County, should contact Larry Barton at 646-0720.

The "Countdown '84" committee is also in need of volunteers in this community to help promote the day's events, to encourage those with special needs children to register their children, and to help with local promotion.

"No matter where you live, Lowell, Medford, Winchester — any city or town — we want to urge people to get involved now and to register their children for what promises to be a really exciting program of events." Those interested in registration or volunteer information should contact Grannan at 390 Mass. Ave., Arlington, or at 646-3200.

CORRECTION

Two VA news releases were sent out dated March 19 and 21 respectively with a typographical error in each. We apologize for this goof.

In a Cost of Living Increase for Disabled

Veterans 3-21 the correct wording is as follows: "Disabled veterans and survivors affected by this legislation will receive their increased benefits for April their May 1 checks."

In a National Consumers' Week release 3-19 the correct wording should have been: "America's veterans have faithfully and honorably served their country and we must strive to return that service courteously and compassionately," Walters said.

Thirteen is considered so unlucky that at one time in Paris no houses had that number.

ABOUT PROCRASTINATING...

The Baby's Room staff likes to give expectant parents help in planning purchases for their new arrival. Our recommendation... don't procrastinate!! Buying good quality juvenile furniture is not like buying regular furniture because you cannot afford to be waiting for it after the baby is born.

Although we stock over 100 styles and finishes of cribs plus matching chests in our warehouse, you may find the one you like best needs to be ordered. Most of the better furniture takes between four and eight weeks from order to delivery. We will be happy to take your crib order and hold it at our warehouse until your room is ready, until the baby is born, or until it's time for the baby to move into the crib.

If there ever is any problem with ordered furniture (or if the baby arrives very early) we will gladly loan you some until yours is in. For competitive prices and excellent service, come visit us soon.

It's that time of year

Maple Sugaring Time!

From February through early April, farmers in nearly every Western Massachusetts town and village honor an old New England tradition. They take to the woods with buckets and tubing to gather sap from maple trees and boil it down to make syrup and sugar.

Maple syrup is not a major crop in Massachusetts agriculture due to the relative scarcity of sugarbushes (stands of maple trees) and the limited duration of the necessary weather conditions. The 150 members of the Massachusetts Maple Producers Association make about 20,000 gallons in an average year with a retail value of approximately $4,000,000.

However, the concentration of farms with sugarhouses is high in the Pioneer Valley of Massachusetts. Many of these farms are small to medium sized and their sugaring income represents an important portion of their gross earnings. Since many of the farms have turned to direct retailing of their produce, there is quite a bit of preparation in March and early April for the annual influx of tourists.

A copy of the latest directory of Massachusetts sugarhouses is available, free of charge to anyone who requests it, from the Massachusetts Maple Producers Association, P.O. Box 207, Murray Rd., Ashfield, Mass. 01330. Tel. (413) 628-3296.

The directory lists sugarhouses that have syrup for sale; additional features such as eating facilities; whether or not wood is used as the fuel to boil the sap; if reverse osmosis pre-concentrates the sap; and which sugarhouses offer maple cream and maple candy as well.

Choosing a career

Choosing a career is one of the most important decisions a person makes. Because the average American spends 25 to 45 years in the workforce, you should carefully consider your career choice.

"Jobs are becoming more specialized," says Mike Freedland, president of the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools (NATTS), an educational association representing over 700 private career schools across the country. "And employers are actively seeking employees with specific skills. The more skills you have, the more marketable you are."

There are several ways to learn skills for fast-growing careers. One way is to begin a career training program at an accredited private trade or technical school. These schools specialize in condensed, "no frills" courses, and are experts in helping their graduates find a job.

In choosing a career, you should consider your interests, salary expectations, and potential for advancement, suggests Freedland. "Focus on the things you're interested in and convert them into career possibilities," he adds. "And be sure to research the salary by talking to employers. Get an idea of what you can expect to make and where the job could lead you."

You should also find out the educational requirements for your chosen career, says Freedland. "Find out how long it will take you to qualify in your field," he suggests.

Once you've picked a career, look at schools. Freedland advises the prospective student to ask for catalogs at three or more schools.

Consumer Reports

Classy TV dinners

By the Editors of Consumer Reports

Frozen TV dinners have become as much a part of American life as TV itself. But now there's competition from a new breed — premium-priced frozen entrees aimed at singles and working couples who want both convenience and fancier dining.

In 1982, Stouffer's introduced Lean Cuisine, a line of entrees with fewer than 300 calories. Prices are high — usually from $3 to $4 for a single serving.

The food technologists at Consumer Reports magazine recently tested five of the 10 Lean Cuisine entrees currently available, cooking them according to package directions. With some entrees, one sample went into a microwave and another into a regular oven. Samples of other dishes, which come in pouches, were cooked in boiling water and in a microwave.

In all the entrees, the amount of the primary ingredient — meat, fish, poultry or vegetable — was usually on the skimpy side.

Oriental Scallops had the best blend of flavors, but the scallops tasted more like fish than scallops. Although the Filet of Fish Divan looked attractive and had an appropriately mild aroma, the technologists said the fish, sauce and broccoli were pretty tasteless.

The cheeses in the Zucchini Lasagna were not distinct in flavor. The spices were very mild and the zucchini had only texture, not taste. Lazed Chicken, the bestseller of the Lean Cuisine line, had a weak taste with the most pronounced flavor coming from the salty sauce. And the dominant taste of the Oriental Beef came from its salty gravy.

Swanson introduced its first frozen "TV Dinner" (its trademark) in 1953. To meet the competition from Stouffer's Lean Cuisine and other upscale frozen dinners, Swanson recently went national with Le Menu.

Consumer Reports technologists tested five of the eight dishes in the Le Menu line. Each is a three-part meal — a meat or poultry, a starch and a vegetable. All are fairly low in calories — anywhere from 350 to 430 in the packages tested. Samples of all dishes were cooked according to package directions, either in a regular oven, a microwave or both.

On the whole, everything looked and smelled inviting. But taste, flavor and texture left much to be desired. The beef in the Pepper Steak tasted dry and overcooked, the rice was soggy and the vegetables sour. The meat in both the Beef Sirloin Tips and Yankee Pot Roast was dry. And, in all three meat entrees, most of the flavor came from the salty gravy.

The Sweet and Sour Chicken sauce was appropriately sweet and sour and it gave life to an otherwise dull dish. But the rice was soft, the beans not very beany and the chicken was dry. The Chicken a la King was the least flavorful of all the dinners. The chicken was tasteless, the rice was soggy and both rice and beans too salty.

(For a special reprint of Consumers Union's evaluation of canned soups, send $1 for each copy to CONSUMERS, P.O. Box 461, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to ask for the reprint on canned soups.)

FILMETER

A capsule look at cinema

FILMETER is compiled by Dick Kleiner in Hollywood and the NEA staff in Hollywood and New York.

BLAME IT ON RIO (R) — Michael Caine, Joseph Bologna, Valerie Harper, Michelle Johnson, Demi Moore. (Comedy) A May-to-December romance results when two chummy fathers take their daughters on a picturesque vacation in Brazil. Miss Johnson, in her film debut, shows a lot of body and little acting talent. GRADE: B.

THE DRESSER (PG) — Albert Finney, Tom Courtenay. (Drama) Albert Finney turns in an excruciatingly fine performance as the aging, half-senile Shakespearean actor Sir, who is coaxed by his devoted dresser (Courtenay) to do one last performance of King Lear. GRADE: A.

GORKY PARK (R) — William Hurt, Lee Marvin, Brian Dennehy, Joanna Pacula. (Mystery) Based on the best-seller, this is a murder mystery set in Moscow, with Hurt as a Russian cop who unravels the triple murder that turns out to be an international crime. The plot is twisty, the direction heavy and the mood is murky but it evokes the Moscow setting nicely. The main problem is that, for some reason, Hurt uses a pseudo-English accent which is extremely irritating. GRADE: B.

HARRY & SON (PG) — Paul Newman, Robby Benson. (Drama/Comedy) Paul Newman directs and stars in this, and he pays so much attention to the direction that he virtually forgets the acting part. It's an episodic, choppy story of a construction worker and his son. The father is unsympathetic and yet we are expected to like him. Some of it hits home, more of it misses. GRADE: B.

THE MAN WHO LOVED WOMEN (R) — Burt Reynolds, Julie Andrews. (Comedy) In this remake of the 1977 Truffaut film about a skirt-chaser, Burt Reynolds' jokes are crude and any charm that he could have exhibited is overshadowed by a continuous, annoying self-pity. Julie Andrews, who portrays his psychiatrist and lover, misses the connection and fades into the background. GRADE: C-minus.

REUBEN, REUBEN (PG) — Tom Conti, Kelly McGillis. (Comedy-Romance) If you want to watch a genuine actor at the peak of his ability, see Conti in action here. It's a slight story about a hard-drinking, hard-wenching Scottish poet on a U.S. lecture tour who falls for a clean-cut, girl-next-door type. In Conti's hands this film becomes something special. It's funny, witty, heart-wrenching and sad all at the same time. GRADE: A.

SAHARA (PG) — Brooke Shields. (Adventure) This is pure camp — silly, dumb, but delightful. It's a throwback to the good bad movies Hollywood used to make. Miss Shields never looked lovelier and never acted worse. It's about an heiress who enters a cross-Sahara auto race and gets involved with assorted good guys and bad guys, in and out of turbans and tents. Don't expect great art, but if you enjoy bad movies, this is for you. GRADE: C-plus.

SCARFACE (R) — Al Pacino, F. Murray Abraham, Steven Bauer, Michelle Pfeiffer. (Drama) In this remake of Howard Hawks' "Scarface," director Brian De Palma takes violence to another level. It is an overblown, vulgar narrative on the destructive escapades of a Cuban, Tony Montana (Pacino), who rises from being a Miami dishwasher to the top of the drug trade. GRADE: D.

SILKWOOD (R) — Meryl Streep, Kurt Russell, Cher. (Drama) Miss Streep renders a humanistic profile of Karen Silkwood, the nuclear industry worker who died in a questionable 1974 car crash while involved in exposing life-threatening hazards at Oklahoma's Kerr-McGee plant. Cher proves that she has a career as a dramatic actress. GRADE: A.

When sleep can be a life and death struggle

Sleep can be a life-and-death struggle for those who suffer from Obstructive Sleep Apnea, a recently recognized condition that causes its victims to stop breathing periodically in their sleep.

During each apneic period, normal breathing can cease for as long as two minutes or more, and is resumed only by waking up. Yet because the arousal time necessary to restart breathing is only a few seconds, people with Obstructive Sleep Apnea usually have no idea of their night-time ordeal.

"In fact," says Dr. Paul T. Gross, a neurologist who heads the Sleep Laboratory at the Lahey Clinic Center in Burlington, Mass., "often the only clue that something is wrong is the exhaustion and excessive sleepiness these people feel during their waking hours."

"Because of that," he says, "until the last several years these patients were often misdiagnosed and treated for narcolepsy, an entirely different disorder that is marked by an irresistible urge to sleep."

Obstructive Sleep Apnea has its cause in a narrow upper airway that periodically closes when the patient sleeps, whether because of large tonsils, tumors or other physical factors. A tendency to relax the throat muscles too much, hindering ventilation even more, can aggravate the problem. In almost all cases, it affects middle aged men who are somewhat overweight and who have a history of very loud snoring.

This cycle can be repeated hundreds of times each night, and because the patient never falls into a deep sleep, he or she is continually exhausted. Beyond this, during these episodes the oxygen level can drop dangerously, causing irregular heart rhythms and even cardiac arrest as well as chronic hypertension and lung disease.

Although some patients can be helped with such measures as sleeping on the side instead of the back, severe cases until just recently have necessitated tracheostomy, the insertion of a tube directly into the throat as a means of bypassing the obstruction.

Now, physicians at the Lahey Clinic are using a surgical technique similar to an adult tonsillectomy to relieve air passage obstructions without the medical or psychological drawbacks of tracheostomy.

Originally developed in the Mid-west, the procedure of palatopharyngoplasty performed by Dr. Roger Hybels of Lahey's Department of Otolaryngology involves removing the tonsils and sewing the tonsillar pillars together to open the pharynx, and removing excess tissue on the palate and, where indicated, the pharynx. Additionally, the uvula, the small fleshy mass hanging from the palate, is usually removed.

"The patient is in the hospital for only a couple of days," Dr. Hybels notes. "Although our follow-up is still short, indications are that the surgery reduces the number and severity of the apneic episodes, eliminates the snoring problems, and does not affect the patient's voice or ability to swallow."

While early results are encouraging, Dr. Gross cautions that the verdict is still out on the long-term effectiveness of the surgical procedure in keeping the throat open.

"But if we have a patient who isn't breathing for up to two minutes every night and whose oxygen level is becoming dangerously low, we cannot allow this condition to continue," he says.

"This new surgery does not carry a high risk, and, in cases where it is not successful we can still do a tracheostomy."

Morgan Memorial announces new weekend hours

With the spring cleaning season underway, Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries must remind the public NOT to leave any merchandise at its attended donation trailers after 5 p.m. or on Sundays.

Residents of Lynnfield, North Reading and Reading may donate ONLY Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at Goodwill's attended donation trailer in North Reading, at Zayre's, 80 Main Street (Rte. 28).

"It's very important that all donors abide by our hours for donating," said Philip Kivlin, Goodwill's Transportation Director. "If merchandise is left after hours, it will be stolen or vandalized, if not ruined by the weather."

"We are now at the beginning of our busiest season, and if a larger volume of merchandise is left outside the trailer, even more will be stolen — and that means even more goods will never reach us," Kivlin said.

When the trailer is open, the attendant will give you a tax receipt for any donations. All donations are tax deductible: housewares, clothing in good condition (not stained or torn), shoes, toys and home furnishings.

Handicapped people at Goodwill process all the goods for sale at Morgie's Goodwill stores.

Geo Facts

Some people get the creeps at the sight of a spider. But to many people around the world, these eight-legged creatures are a sign of good luck, good weather and good health, says National Wildlife's Ranger Rick magazine. In fact, during the 1500s, some English doctors thought spider-and-butter sandwiches could cure high fevers.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

Continuing my tour of 'Walking the Bounds,' I walked into a Wilmington bank and called out, "Did anyone drop a roll of bills with a rubber band around it?" Three people shouted "Yes, I did!" "Good," I replied, "I found your rubber band." I met my wife in a bank wearing a mini-skirt. She drew a lot of interest. I married her because of her beautiful 'figure,' and she fell in love with my 'bank account.'

It wasn't long before I had two more dependents, her father and her mother. I visited my friend Frank Mazzoni, of Wilmington, and asked him, "Frank, do you own that beautiful car in the driveway?" "Sometimes," he answered. "When it's washed and polished it belongs to my wife, when there's a dance somewhere it's my daughter's, when there's a football game at the stadium, my boy takes it and when the tank is nearly empty, like it is right now, then, it belongs to me.

Suzy Arlen and Maureen McGurn work in the same office in Winchester. They look forward to reading Woodchips, saying it's 'crazy,' but we love it and tell all our friends in Wilmington about it.

Lee and Frank Bailey of Tewksbury like the quip about the grandfather's clock that I took to a clock repair shop. I walked out of the shop when it was repaired with the clock on my shoulder and accidentally hit a woman shopper, knocking a couple of packages out of her hands. "Excuse me, lady," I said, really meaning it. She turned to me and snapped, "Why in the heck don't you wear a 'wrist watch' like everyone else does?"

Howie Murphy has lived in Tewksbury since it became a town. Howie is the champion 'shot putter' in the area. He can put a 'shot' away before a bartender can water it down. His Uncle Charlie White came over from the 'Ole Sod,' and became a real estate salesman. Charlie spoke and still does with the most beautiful brogue this side of the ocean.

Bill Burton came out of the Navy and was looking for a house in Tewksbury, so Charlie told him, "I'm going to show you a house without a 'flaw.' " "My goodness," responded Bill. "What in the world will we walk on?" A little rivalry or competition is always good for progress. The English boast they have 'Big Ben,' the Italians, 'The Leaning Tower of Pisa,' the Irish are No. 1, the French, 'The Eiffel Tower,' Egypt, 'the Pyramids,' China, 'The Great Wall' and so on. We Americans should be proud that these wonderful people boast because we are part of all those achievements because this nation is made up of people from all these countries and more. That's what makes America the greatest nation in the world. If you don't think so, there's a ship waiting in the harbor, she sails tomorrow at break of day.

Joe Foley, formerly from Charlestown, is well-liked by almost everyone in Tewksbury. Joe recently bought a dashund so all his kids can pet him at the same time. The Tewksbury police sent out an all-points bulletin for a bank robber with one eye named 'Bernie.' Officer Bob Giguere, super detective of the M.D.C. police, inquired, "What's the other eye called?" To make it easier to identify the robber, three pictures of him were circulated, a left profile, front and right profile. Officer Giguere notified the Tewksbury police yesterday saying, "I think I have the guy in the middle."

John Nowak plays the Hurdy Gurdy weekends. Lee LeBell, a professor of music, asked John, "Is that music from Mozart?" "Nope," answered the one man band, "It's by Handel," as he continued turning the crank. It was so windy yesterday one of Warren Church's hens laid the same egg three times. Frank Guiliano told me that he never drinks coffee during working hours — it keeps him awake.

O.K. "Wagon Ho" to Lynnfield that I thought was exclusively for doctors, lawyers and indian chiefs, — not anymore, otherwise what is Mike Kravchuk doing there — he only owns two Mercedes, one Jaguar and two Cougars (the last two are alive.) Mike won first prize at a 'Bow-legged contest' at Hampton Beach last summer. He received a year's supply of 'Bent-Panty-Hose.' Mike's neighbor Chiquita Banana left her husband when she found out that she wasn't the 'Top Banana' in his life, but only 'one of the bunch.'

Paul Kelly may have to move from Lynnfield, Paul had made over a million dollars on 'Designer Jeans' but unfortunately lost it all on one 'skirt.' Two wonderful friends are Orry and Cecile Vigilante, he's rugged, she's colorful, and they are both durable and why not, Orry is the district manager of a carpet company.

Louis O'Malley's nephew is proficient in the 100 meter dash — but somehow can't summon up the 'Go-Power' to walk out with the 'trash.' Walter Surret, a handsome senior at Merrimac College, worked several jobs during his college years to help defray the tuition cost. He gave up installing mufflers — he came home 'exhausted.' The summer he worked for the Goodyear Company he was always 'tired.' Last summer he had a job he liked — handling a lot of dough in an Italian bakery making French bread and English muffins.

Saul Ziner, my C.P.A. and friend for many years, recently told me when I said, "Someday Saul, my ship will come in." "If it does, Woodchipper, there will be an I.R.S. agent on the pier to 'dock it.'" Before leaving Lynnfield I stopped in for a visit to the Assumption Church where I wanted to be a member of the choir years ago. After hearing me sing, Mrs. Agnes Cassidy, organist and choir director, said "We can use a voice like yours only in case of a 'fire.'

Famous people — Shakespeare married an 'Avon' lady. Whistler's mother was 'framed.' Marconi invented the wireless radio giving the fishermen at sea a 'lift' listening to the radio on their off-duty hours. Eli Whitney was an alcoholic, he kept saying, "Keep your hands off my 'cotton picking gin.' " Don Ameche invented the telephone — I saw him in the picture 'Alexander Graham Bell,' and my grandfather invented the 'door knocker' and received the 'no bell' prize.

At a bargaining session between management and labor, a spokesman told the union representative, "We have upped our offer, now 'up yours.'" Dr. Albert Kelley, a personal friend of mine, is being considered for the Paul Bunion Award. His 'arèh' rival also in the field of Chiropody is Dr. I'min Payne from Tight Shoes, Idaho. In addition to a padded 'footstool' other prizes are an album of 'sole' music, a 'shoe horn' useful for New Year's eve parties and a pair of 'foot lights' from the old Met. Opera House in New York. My two nephews Dennis and Mark Tully went to the dentist. Dennis said, "Doc, I want a tooth taken out — no gas — no novacaine — no nothing — I'm in a hurry." I must say, you are a brave young man, which tooth is it?" "O.K., hurry up Mark, show the doc the tooth."

Thank God,
It's Spring Again!

Have you ever walked a country road in the springtime of the year? And seen the pretty flowers grow that bring us all good cheer? Have you ever walked a sandy beach and watched the waves ride high? Perhaps a lonely gull flew up, then circled in the sky. You've seen, I'm sure a baby smile, cradled in its mother's arms. There's nothing in the world that has, a newborn baby's charms. These many things are nature's way, to tell us one and all Of the beauty that's all around us, that we thought we lost last fall. Oh Lord! As we look in wonder as spring slowly unfolds. We know God's in his heaven and he is the guardian of our souls.

Education

In Brookline and other metropolitan schools, some teachers and administrators have argued that stereo headsets prevent students from hearing the teachers.

Schools fine-tuning headset policies

By Frederic A. Moritz
Staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Brookline, Mass. In a school where the student handbook states "The Fourteenth Amendment guarantees your right to choose the clothes you want to wear and the length of hair you prefer," it is hardly surprising that a ban on a type of headgear encountered some resistance.

The issue at Brookline High, a school known to reflect the liberal leanings of this city just west of Boston, was whether students should be allowed to wear stereo headsets in the library and hallways of the campus.

Today the lenient view prevails. "Headsets are allowed in school, except in the library and in classes," notes school official Jennifer Huntington. According to this policy, students must take headsets off when requested to do so by a faculty member.

But the policy has done a number of flip-flops since last year, when Headmaster Robert McCarthy first proposed a tougher policy that banned the headsets — or "Walkmans," as they are popularly called — from school buildings and the quadrangle.

Then, as now, he maintained the headsets distract from learning, which is the main purpose of school. "They symbolize a retreat from contact with other humans, and they fly in the face of community," he adds.

Last year, the school's "town meeting" (composed of faculty, staff, and student representatives) endorsed the headmaster's sterner policy. In fact, the ban is contained in the current Brookline High School student handbook. But a town-meeting revote early this year struck down the tougher ban, letting the headsets back into school.

Dr. McCarthy says a revote was necessary because the voting formula used last year was ruled invalid. He says the headset question attracted little parental concern.

Even so, in Brookline and a number of other metropolitan schools, some teachers and administrators have argued that the headsets prevent students from hearing the teachers, thus blocking the learning process. And if students are permitted to bring the stereos into the classrooms and hallways, discipline could be undermined, they say. Concern has grown even though stereo-headset music is usually — but not always — quiet enough so that only the headset wearer can hear it.

In Canton, for example, the school committee unanimously voted last month to ban the headsets from all school premises, including classrooms, home rooms, and hallways.

Joseph Joyce, the principal of the 1,050-student high school, says he requested the ban because widespread use of the Walkman could become a future problem, even though it is not one now. He says it was necessary to prohibit headsets in hallways and other areas to prevent students from also carrying them into the classrooms.

But some towns and cities do not have detailed formal regulations. For example, at Newton's South High regulation of headsets is "up to the teacher," explains Principal Ernest Van Seasaholes. He adds, "It is a rare teacher who would allow headset use in class." But in hallways, teachers would intervene only if headset use is annoying to other people, he explains.

Still, some Newton students complain the loosely defined regulations encourage disturban impair or block out a motorist's ability to hear other sounds, threatening the safety of pedestrians or motorists nearby, officials say.

Spokesmen for local and federal traffic safety organizations say they do not have quantitative data on precisely how many traffic accidents are related to headset use. But the presumption of danger has been great enough for the National Committee for Uniform Traffic Ordinances to recommend that states adopt statutes barring motorists and bicyclists from wearing headsets or earplugs in both ears.

According to Robert Boaz, assistant director of public affairs for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration in Washington, nine states, including Massachusetts, have followed the recommendation. Others are California, Florida, Illinois, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Georgia, and Washington. A significant, but untallied, number of towns and cities have adopted similar regulations, he adds.

The Massachusetts ban goes back to 1971, long before the use of stereo headsets became fashionable and widespread, notes Kathy Connolly of the Massachusetts Department of Motor Vehicles. "There is a general consensus that people wearing headsets cannot hear out side sounds such as car horns," she adds.

State law states that wearing a headset while driving is punishable by a $25 fine, according to Joseph Howley of the Massachusetts State Police. Statistics are not detailed enough to determine how often ticketing for this kind of violation occurs, he adds.

Some schools ban headsets; others allow them bances and make studying difficult.

"A lot of them just sit in study hall shaking their heads with the beat. It makes it hard to concentrate," says one Newton High student.

Outside the schools, local and state traffic authorities in New England and elsewhere are tackling what they say is a safety threat posed by the headsets.

When a stereo is turned up loud enough, it

Red Cross and Easter Seal Society Volunteers needed for swim instruction

Volunteers are needed to work on a one-to-one basis with physically disabled children and adults in a swim program co-sponsored by the Massachusetts Easter Seal Society and the Minuteman Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The program is offered at the Bedford

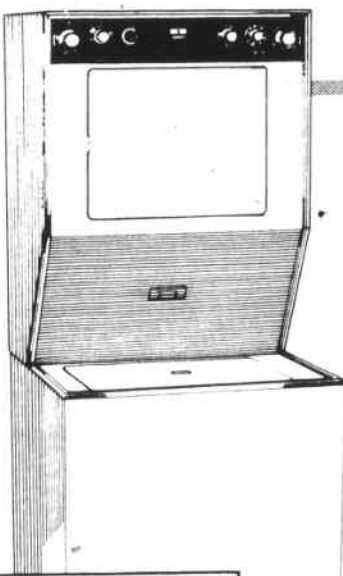

Veteran's Administration Hospital pool on Spring Street. Separate swim classes, for adults and children, will be offered with instruction adapted to meet the needs of each swimmer. Adult classes will run from 9:30 — 10:30 A.M. and classes for children will run from 11:00 — 12 noon. Volunteers will, at all times, be supervised by a trained water safety instructor.

Volunteers are also needed to assist with handicapped swim programs in Greater Boston communities and the suburbs. For more information on becoming a volunteer, contact the Easter Seal Society at 482-3370.

Quannapowitt Players

Rehearsals begin for "How the Other Half Loves"

Rehearsals are in progress for the Quannapowitt Players' last production of the season, "How the Other Half Loves", by Alan Ayckbourn. Q.P. veterans and on-lookers alike chuckle as the actors hone their physical movements and conversational nuances to the funniest degree with experienced ease.

This rollicking comedy is the story of three couples catapulted into comical confusion when a "little" white lie backfires. The play, written in 1971, contains a contrast of personalities which, combined with the author's unique staging and hilarious dialogue, insure the play to be one of Q.P.'s comedic legends.

The author, Alan Ayckbourn, is an actor, director and playwright. He has been touted as a British Neil Simon albeit the fact he endows his characters with feelings which can be and are hurt. Ayckbourn's most outstanding talents as a playwright lie in his ability to expose life's banalities as absurdities and create masterful plots coupled with unique set designs.

Regarding the latter contribution, Eric Shorter in "Drama" contends Ayckbourn 'has...probably done as much as any other living playwright to use the stage with an original sense of its scope — to stretch its scenic and dramatic possibilities.'

The director, Irene Ehl of Reading, acting credits include Beatrice in "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man in the Moon Marigolds" and Liz, the actor-hero's wife in "Present Laughter." Irene's directorial efforts encompass "Black Comedy," "Equus," "I Never Sang for My Father," and most recently, "The Runner Stumbles" last season. Mrs. Ehl is also Director of the Children's Drama Workshop in Reading, now in its 11th year.

Fran Richard of Reading (Fiona in the play), had the title role in "Veronica's Room" at Theatre at Brooks. There she also portrayed Blanche in

"Streetcar Named Desire."

Production staff for "How the Other Half Loves" include: program — Sumner Blanchard of North Reading; stage manager — Jeanne Gorfine of Malden; assistant stage manager — Bill Moore of Wakefield; lighting design — Marilyn Wales of Wakefield; sound operation — Sumner Blanchard; set design — Irene Ehl; set construction — David Low of Stoneham; and costumes — Janet Fantasia of Reading, assisted by Jerry DeCarlo of Wakefield. Props are being handled by Stephanie Moore of Wakefield, Mark A. Szytko of Danvers and Barbara A. Davis of Everett.

Performance dates for "How the Other Half Loves" are April 27 and 28 and May 4, 5, 6, 10, 11 and 12. A free production for senior citizens is scheduled for Thursday, April 26 at 8:15 p.m. Accompanying family members or friends of the seniors are welcome.

For ticket information and reservations, call the Quannapowitt Players Playhouse, 55 Hopkins St., Reading, at 944-4949.
